VOL. LXXXIV—No. 74 CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., FRIDAY EVENING, JANUARY 14, 1955. PRICE FIVE CENTS

No Conditions Made on Fliers

United Nations, Jan. 14 (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold said today that Red China's Chou-Lai raised a number of questions, including a UN seat, during their Peiping talks—but that he definitely had laid down no conditions for release of the 11 American fliers held there.

The Secretary General, in a news conference, declared he had achieved what he was "aiming at" during his visit to Peiping.

He described this as merely the first step in the continuing contact.

Hammarskjold said that in his opinion an improvement in the international climate was directly connected with the question of releasing the American fliers and other UN command personnel held by the Chinese Communists.

He stressed, however, that Chou had made no proposals or laid down any terms.

He said Chou's discussion of other questions was "entirely apart from the question of the prisoners."

"No deals of any kind, nor any link between these other questions and the prisoner question, were suggested by either side, Hammarskjold told reporters.

The secretary general declined to list specifically which questions Chou had brought up, but he said the Chinese leader had raised just about every issue that he has discussed in recent speeches, statements, and other expressions.

HAMMARSKJOLD was asked whether Chou had expressed concern over a possible attack on the Chinese mainland by the United States.

"One of the curious things about the present world situation is that everybody is afraid of everybody else," the secretary general said.

Asked whether Chou had brought up the question of Peiping representation in the UN, Hammarskjold said this was covered by the previous statement that Chou had discussed almost everything.

The secretary general said the question of 35 Chinese students detained in the United States had not been made a condition for release of the American fliers.

Hammarskjold arrived here last night and immediately conferred for an hour with Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U. S. delegate. Later Lodge reported to Secretary of State Dulles, who in turn filled in President Eisenhower.

Testimony Taken In Damage Action

Testimony was continued this morning in Supreme Court before Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth in a negligence action brought by Donald Reese against Everett Van Kleeck to recover damages for injuries sustained on March 17, 1954, when the two cars collided on the East Chester street by-pass. Plaintiff suffered broken ribs and a chest injury when his car struck a rock ledge after the collision.

Howard C. St. John appeared for plaintiff and Andrew J. Cook of Cook & Cook for defendant.

Plaintiff's case was closed following testimony by Dr. B. W. Gifford of Saugerties who treated Reese after he had returned to his home from the hospital.

Motions to dismiss the complaint on the grounds the plaintiff had failed to prove a case were denied by Justice Elsworth and the defendant, Everett Van Kleeck was sworn as the first defense witness.

JURORS NOT ENGAGED on the case were excused until Monday at 10 o'clock.

Among the cases announced settled were:

No. 82, Samuel Aronowitz and another against Charles Chavoustie and another, contract. Lawrence Levine for plaintiff and John W. Manning for defendant.

No. 97, James V. Vozellz against John Doe and Richard Roe, property damage and personal injury. Edward P. Hirsch for plaintiff and Cook and Cook for defendant.

No. 164, George Jargowsky against Lewis N. Simpson, negligence. Lawrence Levine for plaintiff and Cashin & Ewig for defendant.

No. 264, Vincent Garrison against Richard Peterson, negligence. Michael Nardone for plaintiff and Roy L. Featherstone for defendant.

No. M-13, Angelo Ferraro against Dorothy Vogel and another, property damage. Roy L. Featherstone for plaintiff and Carter & Conboy for defendant.

Tighter Hold Is Sought

Congressmen Say Action Is Needed

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—Several members called for tighter security measures in the House after an unemployed stenographer who says "nobody tried to stop me" walked up to Speaker Rayburn (D.-Tex.) and asked to make a speech.

Turned down by the surprised Rayburn, she was permitted to leave without even giving her name—only the word that she came from New Kensington, Pa. Guards later sought her in vain around the Capitol.

It was not until hours later that she was found by newsmen at a local hotel. She said she is Mrs. Grace Jackson Clark, 49, of New Kensington, and that she wanted to ask the House to urge the country "to stop long enough to consider what good citizenship is."

MRS. CLARK described herself as "ignorant of the way the country is run."

Her entry into the House and approach to Rayburn on the speaker's rostrum, in violation of all congressional rules, came shortly after the House convened yesterday. A clerk was reading a message from President Eisenhower.

The incident, innocent enough in itself, gave goose pimples to members who recall vividly last March 1, when four Puerto Rican nationals in the gallery shot and wounded five members on the floor of the House.

Reps. Bentley (R.-Mich.) and Roberts (D.-Ala.), two of the most seriously wounded in that shooting, called today for tighter security measures to protect members against further incidents. Roberts walks with a cane as a result of wounds he suffered in the March affray.

RAYBURN DISCLOSED that he has ordered plainclothes detectives back into the spectators' galleries. He also hinted that House doorkeepers were due for a talking to.

House interest was revived in establishing a professional police force to guard the Capitol. The present force is largely made up of political appointees.

The House, in the wake of last year's mass assassination attempt, voted overwhelmingly for a professional force. The proposal, however, died in the Senate.

Sen. Bridges (R-N. H.) suggested Wednesday the Senate should tighten up its own rules on the admission of visitors to the Senate floor. Sometimes there are so many even senators can't find seats, he said. Bridges' chief point, however, was that too many non-members are authorized to be on the Senate floor.

All proceeds of the ball will be given to the welfare fund of the local Marine Detachment.

This Convict Got Results

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 14 (AP)—An inmate of the Connecticut State Prison has written to the Legislature that he cannot live on his 15 cents-a-day pay.

And he got results, a bill was introduced into the State House of Representatives yesterday to boost prisoners' pay to 25 cents.

The convict, an unidentified long termer, pointed out that the inmates need money to buy soap, sugar, cigarettes and such items.

Hitting at rising prices, he said a two-pound box of sugar that cost 14 cents in 1932 now "costs 35 cents, more than two days pay."

Trouble Is Heard Over Post Items

Articles Preceded Juvenile Report

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—A tempest boiled up today within the Senate Juvenile Delinquency subcommittee over the action of two staff aides in writing magazine articles about the group's work before its report is published.

Members were trying to arrange an early meeting to decide whether Herbert W. Beaser, chief counsel of the subcommittee, and Richard Clendenen, its staff director, were justified or should be required to walk the plank.

Former Sen. Robert C. Hendricksen, New Jersey Republican newly nominated by President Eisenhower to be ambassador to New Zealand, was chairman of the subcommittee in the last Congress. He did not seek re-election.

AT THE MOMENT the subcommittee has no chairman. members are frankly upset because two of Beaser's and Clendenen's articles have already been published in a big national magazine (Saturday Evening Post) before the group's official findings have been submitted to the Senate.

In their series, entitled "the shame of America," Clendenen and Beaser cite community and individual cases studied by the subcommittee. They use these cases to point up their opinions on the causes of juvenile waywardness and as examples of how the problem has been handled.

The two subcommittee staff members mention as some contributing factors the "breakdown of the neighborhood," the moving about of families and "increased tensions." They also discuss the role they say adults have played in the rise of delinquency.

President Wins Some Support

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower has won quick bipartisan support in Congress for extending the draft and raising military pay, but he faces sharp skirmishing on some other parts of a broad new military manpower program.

The President called yesterday for a four-year extension of the draft, more money and benefits for career servicemen and a reorganized and strengthened poll of reserve strength.

The reserve program include a plan for six months basic training for limited numbers of 17 and 18-year-olds and a requirement that both these youths and regular draftees serve additional time in active, organized reserve units.

The President told Congress in two special messages that these steps are necessary to give the nation its first peacetime "proper military posture" and to provide the capacity of dealing with any "aggressor so criminally unwise as to attempt an atomic attack."

Chairman Vinson (D.-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee said he strongly endorsed a selective pay increase and the general idea of more fringe benefits for servicemen.

Vinson said in a statement he would support both a four-year extension of the regular draft and a requested two-year extension of the law drafting doctors and dentists. Both are now due to expire June 30.

But he underscored a prevalent wait-and-see attitude on the President's proposals to increase and strengthen the reserves. In past years, Congress has remained cool to all proposals for universal military training, some of which have paralleled the President's six-month training plan, and there were strong indications the present Congress would take its time in considering that program.

Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee told newsmen "undoubtedly there will be some increased compensation" for servicemen but declined comment on other features of the program.

The chairman said both committees would "go very fully" into the President's proposals, probably late this month.

Rep. Arends (R-Ill.), a member of the Armed Services Committee, said he was happy to see the President's pay raise proposals because he said they are necessary. If more money keeps highly trained men in service, he said, the country eventually will save money.

Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass.), chairman last year of the Senate Armed Services Committee said the proposal "forms a strong basis on which a bill for building up trained reserves and for stabilization of our regular services can be written."

Rep. Short (R-Mo.), senior Republican on the House group, has supported extending the draft and some pay increases.

Skirmishing is expected, however, over details of the reserve program and some of the fringe benefits which Congress has chipped away and the President proposes to restore.

In addition to pay raises, Eisenhower said there is need for more and cheaper military housing, better medical care for dependents, and a fairer program of survivor benefits.

'Foreign Planes' Are Blamed for Bombing

Report Is Given Out On Matter

Ex-President's Son Led Rebel Forces

San Jose, Costa Rica, Jan. 14 (AP)—With fighting in Costa Rica's four-day-old war at a virtual standstill, an inter-American Investigating Commission reported today that the planes which bombed and machine-gunned Costa Rican towns had come from "foreign soil."

The finding was announced as former Costa Rican President Teodoro Picado admitted in an interview in Managua, Nicaragua, that his 27-year-old son, Teodoro Jr., was commanding the rebel forces. The younger Picado is a graduate of West Point and is married to a Los Angeles woman.

THE COMMISSION also reported it had found "serions indications that arms and munitions have been supplied from a foreign source to rebel elements in Costa Rican territory." The commission did not identify the "foreign soil" or the "foreign source."

The five-nation investigating group forwarded its findings to Jose Mora of Uruguay, president of the council of the Organization of American States (OAS). The council sent the commission to the scene to probe Costa Rican charges of aggression by neighboring Nicaragua in connection with the fighting.

NICARAGUAN officials have denied Costa Rican accusations that the Managua government armed, trained and equipped the rebels. They say the fighting is internal revolution.

The commission's findings will be used by the OAS council as a guide in deciding whether action should be taken under the Rio de Janerio Treaty. This pact provides for joint action by the American states if any of its fellows is invaded. But already the arrival of the OAS mission and the promise of observation flights by U. S. planes appeared to have had calming effect on the fracas.

THE COSTA RICAN general staff reported that a rebel force of 200 to 300 men apparently was stalled around La Cruz, in the northwest tip of the country just south of the Nicaraguan border. A spokesman said no contact had yet been made with this force, although government troops were developing a movement to defeat it.

The rest of the country was reported quiet with the government in control. The general staff spokesman said loyal forces had taken advantage of the lull to "consolidate their positions."

Newspaper reports in San Jose said the towns of Liberia and Las Canas were attacked last night by a plane flying without lights. According to the press accounts both towns were strafed and one bomb was dropped at Liberia. Liberia and Las Canas are in the northwest part of the country, on the Inter-American Highway leading south from Nicaragua.

A SPOKESMAN for the general staff's press office said Liberia underwent an air raid alarm but no attack. He said San Jose was blacked out for 35 minutes last night because the army had reason to believe there was a "high flying intruder" in the area, but no planes appeared over the capital.

The Inter-American Investigating Commission announced that it would begin "pacific observation" flights today over Costa Rican territory. The United States has agreed to supply planes for such surveys.

The U. S. Army reported in Washington last night that the flights would be made by navy seaplanes from the Coco Solo Air Station in the Panama Canal Zone. The report said the navy has assigned the job to Patrol

AUTHORITY WOULD SELL this Ann street house as step in clearing area. (Freeman Photo)

Housing Authority Will Clear City Area

The first step in the actual clearing of the downtown low standard housing area has been commenced by the Kingston Housing Authority with the advertising for the sale and removal of a house at 72 Ann street, formerly the property of Michael J., and Ruth J. Augustine.

This house in the sixth ward has been acquired by the Housing Authority as a part of the area to be cleared but the structure is in such good condition, George E. Yerry, chairman of the authority explained, that the authority is seeking to sell the building and will receive bids for the house, either to be moved intact from the site or to be demolished for relocating.

BIDS WILL BE RECEIVED by the Kingston Housing Authority, according to an advertisement appearing in this issue of The Freeman, to be opened at the office of the authority at Colonial Gardens on January 27, at 2:30 p. m. The authority retains the right to reject any or all bids. Time for inspection of the premises is contained in the legal notice announcing the sale. If no reasonable offer is received for the structure, it will be placed in the demolishing contract which will shortly be advertised when eight other houses, in to poor condition to be sold, will be demolished under a contract.

INCLUDED IN THE AREA to be cleared are 13 structures, nine of which already have been acquired by the authority. In the other four cases where a satisfactory offer could not be arrived at condemnation proceedings will shortly be commenced.

Yerry said that if no bid is received for the structure at 72 Ann street, that structure also will be included in the contract along with the other eight houses to be demolished. Contracts for tearing down the structures in the area will not be sought until shortly after January 27 or when it is determined whether the house at 72 Ann street should be included in the demolishing contract.

Theatre Program Set for Saturday

State, county and city officials will be present for Saturday's dedication of the Walter Reade Community Theatre on central Broadway, together with celebrities of the moving picture industry, including John Ericson, one star of Bad Day at Black Rock, the new M-G-M CinemaScope chosen for the occasion.

The Reade chain spent $250,000 changing its Broadway Theatre to the new Community, embodying all the modern conveniences for the comfort of patrons behind Old Colonial Architecture to fit the city's history, with large columns in front replacing the worn out marquee with its glaring lights.

State Senator Arthur H. Wicks, Assemblyman Kenneth Wilson, Mayor Frederick H. Stang and aldermen of Kingston's 13 wards have been invited to the big reception at 5 p. m., in the mezzanine of the theatre following arrival of filmland celebrities led by a police motor escort from the Rondout creek bridge.

Bad Day at Black Rock will be flashed on the screen for the public at 8 p. m., and expectations are that the Community will be jammed for the western film in which a vicious cowboy bully (Lee Marvin of Woodstock) tries to run Spencer Tracy, mysterious visitor, out of town.

Marvin, undergoing a heavy schedule of picture making in Hollywood, will not be present for the dedication, Joseph Som-

Teller Adopts 'Lazy Susan' Principle to Circular Hall

The "Lazy Susan" principal familiar in today's revolving trays which is a hand-down from Colonial days when a housewife could sit in one place and revolve a "Lazy Susan" while skimming cream from many pans of milk, has been applied to a "circular hall step saver home by Myron S. Teller, retired Kingston architect.

Teller has applied for a patent on his design which he contends would be of great value to handicapped persons.

The "Lazy Susan" principal is familiar in today's revolving trays, yesterday's milk cellar, today's factory turntable and railroad turntable and the idea was once applied to a home. However, Teller points out that the house idea was one for turning the entire house around so as to get the greatest benefit from sun and light. That principal had numerous drawbacks, including the problem of connecting up utilities, water and gas mains and other necessary things.

Teller's plan involves only a rotating hallway which would rotate around a central stairway and give access to various rooms on the floor without need for walking from one section of the house to another. The touch of a button would start the hall revolving, another touch would stop it at a desired point. So far as Teller can discover the only precedents for his proposal according to records in the U. S. Patent Office involves rotating an entire house built on a revolving platform or track on a foundation base.

A rotating hallway would in no way affect the construction of foundations, walls or roof. A report of the Teller rotating hall is contained in the December issue of Architectural Record, together with sketches of the proposed plan.

Teller suggests his scheme "while based on an historic foundation would still afford the engineer or architect of this modernistic age plenty of freedom to plan rectangular or other distortions to surround the rotating unit."

Conference Begins in Germany

Saar Question Is High on Agenda

Baden-Baden, Germany, Jan. 14 (AP)—French Premier Pierre Mendes-France and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer met in this resort city today for vital talks on issues still dividing the World War 2 enemies. At the top of the agenda was the troublesome Saar question.

The dynamic French premier and the austere, 79-year-old West German leader began their conferences at 10:40 a. m., in a luxury hotel. The talks were expected to last until midnight.

West German officials said the two leaders would cover the whole range of French-German problems.

AIDES SAID the two leaders took up general political questions, including the arms pool plan and the Mosel river canal project, in their first session—lasting 2½ hours. They did not touch on the Saar.

Adenauer has promised his Parliament to seek from Mendes-France clarification of differing French-German interpretations

Mrs. J. A. Farley Dies Suddenly

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—Mrs. James A. Farley, 60, wife of the former postmaster general and former Democratic national chairman, died today of a heart attack.

Farley was with her when she was stricken at about 7 a. m. in their Waldorf-Astoria apartment.

The family said she suffered a heart attack last May but generally had been feeling well since then.

She had been under a doctor's care.

The former Elizabeth Finnegan, she was born in Haverstraw, July 13, 1894. She was a graduate of Haverstraw High School and Plattsburg Normal School, a teacher's college.

SHE AND FARLEY were married April 28, 1920, in St. Peter's Church, Haverstraw. They took up residence in New York City in 1929.

Three yars later Farley played a key role in the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt as President. Farley and Roosevelt split after the latter decided to seek a precedent-shattering third term.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Farley is survived by three children and seven grandchildren. The children are Mrs. Glenn D. Montgomery, Scarsdale, N. Y.; Mrs. Edward J. Hickey, Grosse Point, Mich.; and James A. Farley Jr., New Rochelle, N. Y.

A funeral mass will be celebrated Monday at 11 a. m. in St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York. Burial will be in Gate of Heaven Cemetery, Valhalla.

The body will repose meanwhile at the Abbey Funeral Home, 66th St. and Lexington Ave.

In their series, entitled "the shame of America," Clendenen and Beaser cite community and individual cases studied by the subcommittee. They use these cases to point up their opinions on the causes of juvenile waywardness and as examples of how the problem has been handled.

The two subcommittee staff members mention as some contributing factors the "breakdown of the neighborhood," the moving about of families and "increased tensions." They also discuss the role they say adults have played in the rise of delinquency.

"THE TRUTH IS," they assert at one point, "that we tend to be a nation that preaches one set of

President Wins Some Support

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower has won quick bipartisan support in Congress for extending the draft and raising military pay, but he faces sharp skirmishing on some other parts of a broad new military manpower program.

The President called yesterday for a four-year extension of the draft, more money and benefits for career servicemen and a reorganized and strengthened poll of reserve strength.

The reserve program include a plan for six months basic training for limited numbers of 17 and 18-year-olds and a requirement that both these youths and regular draftees serve additional time in active, organized reserve units.

The President told Congress in two special messages that these steps are necessary to give the nation its first peacetime "proper military posture" and to provide the capacity of dealing with any "aggressor so criminally unwise as to attempt an atomic attack."

Chairman Vinson (D.-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee said he strongly endorsed a selective pay increase and the general idea of more fringe benefits for servicemen.

Vinson said in a statement he would support both a four-year extension of the regular draft and a requested two-year extension of the law drafting doctors and dentists. Both are now due to expire June 30.

But he underscored a prevalent wait-and-see attitude on the President's proposals to increase and strengthen the reserves. In past years, Congress has remained cool to all proposals for universal military training, some of which have paralleled the President's six-month training plan, and there were strong indications the present Congress would take its time in considering that program.

Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee told newsmen "undoubtedly there will be some increased compensation" for servicemen but declined comment on other features of the program.

The chairman said both committees would "go very fully" into the President's proposals, probably late this month.

Rep. Arends (R-Ill.), a member of the Armed Services Committee, said he was happy to see the President's pay raise proposals because he said they are necessary. If more money keeps highly trained men in service, he said, the country eventually will save money.

Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass.), chairman last year of the Senate Armed Services Committee said the proposal "forms a strong basis on which a bill for building up trained reserves and for stabilization of our regular services can be written."

Rep. Short (R-Mo.), senior Republican on the House group, has supported extending the draft and some pay increases.

Skirmishing is expected, however, over details of the reserve program and some of the fringe benefits which Congress has chipped away and the President proposes to restore.

In addition to pay raises, Eisenhower said there is need for more and cheaper military housing, better medical care for dependents, and a fairer program of survivor benefits.

Housing Authority Will Clear City Area

The first step in the actual clearing of the downtown low standard housing area has been commenced by the Kingston Housing Authority with the advertising for the sale and removal of a house at 72 Ann street, formerly the property of Michael J., and Ruth J. Augustine.

This house in the sixth ward has been acquired by the Housing Authority as a part of the area to be cleared but the structure is in such good condition, George E. Yerry, chairman of the authority explained, that the authority is seeking to sell the building and will receive bids for the house, either to be moved intact from the site or to be demolished for relocating.

BIDS WILL BE RECEIVED by the Kingston Housing Authority, according to an advertisement appearing in this issue of The Freeman, to be opened at the office of the authority at Colonial Gardens on January 27, at 2:30 p. m. The authority retains the right to reject any or all bids. Time for inspection of the premises is contained in the legal notice announcing the sale. If no reasonable offer is received for the structure, it will be placed in the demolishing contract which will shortly be advertised when eight other houses, in to poor condition to be sold, will be demolished under a contract.

INCLUDED IN THE AREA to be cleared are 13 structures, nine of which already have been acquired by the authority. In the other four cases where a satisfactory offer could not be arrived at condemnation proceedings will shortly be commenced.

Yerry said that if no bid is received for the structure at 72 Ann street, that structure also will be included in the contract along with the other eight houses to be demolished. Contracts for tearing down the structures in the area will not be sought until shortly after January 27 or when it is determined whether the house at 72 Ann street should be included in the demolishing contract.

Theatre Program Set for Saturday

State, county and city officials will be present for Saturday's dedication of the Walter Reade Community Theatre on central Broadway, together with celebrities of the moving picture industry, including John Ericson, one star of Bad Day at Black Rock, the new M-G-M Cinem Scope chosen for the occasion.

The Reade chain spent $250,000 changing its Broadway Theatre to the new Community, embodying all the modern conveniences for the comfort of patrons behind Old Colonial Architecture to fit the city's history, with large columns in front replacing the worn out marquee with its glaring lights.

State Senator Arthur H. Wicks, Assemblyman Kenneth Wilson, Mayor Frederick H. Stang and aldermen of Kingston's 13 wards have been invited to the big reception at 5 p. m., in the mezzanine of the theatre following arrival of filmland celebrities led by a police motor escort from the Rondout creek bridge.

Bad Day at Black Rock will be flashed on the screen for the public at 8 p. m., and expectations are that the Community will be jammed for the western film in which a vicious cowboy bully (Lee Marvin of Woodstock) tries to run Spencer Tracy, mysterious visitor, out of town.

Marvin, undergoing a heavy schedule of picture making in Hollywood, will not be present for the dedication, Joseph Som-

The "Lazy Susan" principal familiar in today's revolving trays which is a hand-down from Colonial days when a housewife could sit in one place and revolve a "Lazy Susan" while skimming cream from many pans of milk, has been applied to a "circular hall step saver home by Myron S. Teller, retired Kingston architect.

Teller has applied for a patent on his design which he contends would be of great value to handicapped persons.

The "Lazy Susan" principal is familiar in today's revolving trays, yesterday's milk cellar, today's factory turntable and railroad turntable and the idea was once applied to a home. However, Teller points out that the house idea was one for turning the entire house around so as to get the greatest benefit from sun and light. That principal had numerous drawbacks, including the problem of connecting up utilities, water and gas mains and other necessary things.

Teller's plan involves only a rotating hallway which would rotate around a central stairway and give access to various rooms on the floor without need for walking from one section of the house to another. The touch of a button would start the hall revolving, another touch would stop it at a desired point. So far as Teller can discover the only precedents for his proposal according to records in the U. S. Patent Office involves rotating an entire house built on a revolving platform or track on a foundation base.

A rotating hallway would in no way affect the construction of foundations, walls or roof. A report of the Teller rotating hall is contained in the December issue of Architectural Record, together with sketches of the proposed plan.

Teller suggests his scheme "while based on an historic foundation would still afford the engineer or architect of this modernistic age plenty of freedom to plan rectangular or other distortions to surround the rotating unit."

Report Is Given Out On Matter

Ex-President's Son Led Rebel Forces

San Jose, Costa Rica, Jan. 14 (AP)—With fighting in Costa Rica's four-day-old war at a virtual standstill, an inter-American Investigating Commission reported today that the planes which bombed and machine-gunned Costa Rican towns had come from "foreign soil."

The finding was announced as former Costa Rican President Teodoro Picado admitted in an interview in Managua, Nicaragua, that his 27-year-old son, Teodoro Jr., was commanding the rebel forces. The younger Picado is a graduate of West Point and is married to a Los Angeles woman.

THE COMMISSION also reported it had found "serions indications that arms and munitions have been supplied from a foreign source to rebel elements in Costa Rican territory." The commission did not identify the "foreign soil" or the "foreign source."

The five-nation investigating group forwarded its findings to Jose Mora of Uruguay, president of the council of the Organization of American States (OAS). The council sent the commission to the scene to probe Costa Rican charges of aggression by neighboring Nicaragua in connection with the fighting.

NICARAGUAN officials have denied Costa Rican accusations that the Managua government armed, trained and equipped the rebels. They say the fighting is internal revolution.

The commission's findings will be used by the OAS council as a guide in deciding whether action should be taken under the Rio de Janerio Treaty. This pact provides for joint action by the American states if any of its fellows is invaded. But already the arrival of the OAS mission and the promise of observation flights by U. S. planes appeared to have had calming effect on the fracas.

THE COSTA RICAN general staff reported that a rebel force of 200 to 300 men apparently was stalled around La Cruz, in the northwest tip of the country just south of the Nicaraguan border. A spokesman said no contact had yet been made with this force, although government troops were developing a movement to defeat it.

The rest of the country was reported quiet with the government in control. The general staff spokesman said loyal forces had taken advantage of the lull to "consolidate their positions."

Newspaper reports in San Jose said the towns of Liberia and Las Canas were attacked last night by a plane flying without lights. According to the press accounts both towns were strafed and one bomb was dropped at Liberia. Liberia and Las Canas are in the northwest part of the country, on the Inter-American Highway leading south from Nicaragua.

A SPOKESMAN for the general staff's press office said Liberia underwent an air raid alarm but no attack. He said San Jose was blacked out for 35 minutes last night because the army had reason to believe there was a "high flying intruder" in the area, but no planes appeared over the capital.

The Inter-American Investigating Commission announced that it would begin "pacific observation" flights today over Costa Rican territory. The United States has agreed to supply planes for such surveys.

The U. S. Army reported in Washington last night that the flights would be made by navy seaplanes from the Coco Solo Air Station in the Panama Canal Zone. The report said the navy has assigned the job to Patrol

Conference Begins in Germany

Saar Question Is High on Agenda

Baden-Baden, Germany, Jan. 14 (AP)—French Premier Pierre Mendes-France and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer met in this resort city today for vital talks on issues still dividing the World War 2 enemies. At the top of the agenda was the troublesome Saar question.

The dynamic French premier and the austere, 79-year-old West German leader began their conferences at 10:40 a. m., in a luxury hotel. The talks were expected to last until midnight.

West German officials said the two leaders would cover the whole range of French-German problems.

AIDES SAID the two leaders took up general political questions, including the arms pool plan and the Mosel river canal project, in their first session—lasting 2½ hours. They did not touch on the Saar.

Adenauer has promised his Parliament to seek from Mendes-France clarification of differing French-German interpretations

Ohio Man to Be Representative

"Because much of the nation's economic and industrial activity centers in the southern section of the State of New York, we are sending a hand-picked man into that extremely promising area," Charles H. Standish, president and treasurer of Designers for Industry, Inc., a Cleveland, Ohio, research and development firm, announced today as he appointed Vern L. Ripley of Cleveland to the important post of DFI contracting representative for the three southern New York counties of Dutchess, Sullivan and Ulster.

"Ripley was selected because of his years of executive experience in the industrial, manufacturing, and production planning fields," Standish said.

The new contracting representative will also be official DFI contact for firms located in Long Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, and eastern Pennsylvania.

Numbered among DFI clients are such well known firms as: The American Chain and Cable Co., York, Pa.; Barnes Drill Co., Rockford, Ill., The Radio Corporation of America; Republic Steel Corp.; The Westinghouse Electric Corp.; and the Stromberg-Carlson Co.

Schweitzer Finds His Burden Heavy

Schweitzer, world-famed philosopher, physician, theologian and organist, wrote a long chatty letter to "friends of the hospital" he built at Lamberene to help natives suffering from tropical diseases.

The letter, published in the London News Chronicle, radiates selfless devotion of Schweitzer, a Nobel Peace Prize winner, to his mission.

HE APOLOGIZED for not reporting oftener to the friends of the hospital. He is two years behind in his correspondence. He will have nothing to do with typewriters and stenographers. For him a letter is a long struggle with a pen.

"More than once I have felt the need and obligation to let them (supporters of hospital) know how things have been shaping up for us since the war, and I started to do so several times," he wrote. "But I could never finish, either because I was interrupted by urgent work, or because I was too tired."

Life lately has been a ceaseless round of strenuous labor, Dr. Schweitzer said.

Erica Steel Is To Testify at Jelke's Retrial

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—Erica Steel, a key prosecution witness in the 1953 vice trial of Minot (Mickey) Jelke, arrived by plane today from Los Angeles and said she has agreed to testify at the margarine heir's forthcoming retrial.

Miss Steel, 34, who had been sought by authorities on the West coast since New Year's Day, surrendered voluntarily in Los Angeles yesterday.

SHE TOLD NEWSMEN at Idlewild Airport today: "I thought it would be nice to get the whole thing over with."

Miss Steel's surrender followed issuance of an order for her to show cause why she should not be removed from her residence in Hollywood to New York to appear as a witness.

Wearing a mink stole and dark glasses as she alighted from the plane, Miss Steel was accompanied by Detective William Haughie and Asst. Dist. Atty. Daniel Hopper.

Miss Steel, asked if she would testify the "same way" as at the first trial, replied: "If they ask me the same questions."

SHE SAID SHE HAD GONE to Los Angeles last week when she learned she was being sought.

Before that, she said, she had been in Las Vegas, Nev., vacationing and rehearsing dancing for a hotel show.

Miss Steel left the airport with officers by car for the Criminal Courts Building in Manhattan.

Jelke was convicted two years ago of compulsory prostitution involving call girls who allegedly shared with him their date profits amounting to $100 a night.

The state Court of Appeals ordered a new trial, because press and public were barred from the courtroom during the prosecution phase of the case.

Teamsters Picket Knaust Cannery

Members of Albany Local 294, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, AFL, today were picketing the K. B. Products Inc. cannery at Hudson in a bid to be named bargaining agent for workers in the Knaust mushroom firm.

A spokesman for the union claimed local 294 has organized 250 workers including 60 truck drivers and asked the Knaust management to recognize the union as bargaining agent. The firm refused to meet with union representatives, the spokesman said, and the union has authorized the picket line.

Picketing at present is confined to the cannery at Hudson but may spread to other Knaust installations in the Hudson valley, the speaker said.

An application to the NLRB for the right to hold an election was denied on the grounds that the mushroom industry is classified as agriculture, and outside the jurisdiction of the NLRB, the union spokesman said.

Cashin in Line As Federal Judge

Albany, Jan. 14 (AP)—Miss Mary Donlon, former chairman of the State Workmen's Compensation Board, has been recommended for appointment as a federal judge in the southern district of New York, the Knickerbocker News said today.

The paper reported that a Republican leader who requested his name not be used confirmed that Miss Donlon had been recommended. She is a native of Utica and a New York city resident.

A vacancy was created in the southern district with the retirement of Judge Edward Conger on Nov. 1. The post pays $15,000 a year.

It was also reported that Westchester and Ulster counties had advanced candidates. No Westchester name was mentioned. Ulster Republicans were reported pushing County Judge John Cashin.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—In the quietest trading of the week, the stock market today pursued a narrowly mixed course.

There were a few changes either way going past a point, but most gains and losses were small.

Business progressed at a steady rate, but the pace was well under yesterday's 3,350,000 shares.

Steels held higher as a group, and coppers and distillers moved ahead. Most aircrafts and motion pictures were lower. Other major divisions were mixed. Some oils were active and higher.

Beech Aircraft moved up on a higher dividend, and also higher were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, National Distillers, American Telephone, Anaconda Copper, Westinghouse Air Brake, and Sunray Oil, which had a mid-day flurry of activity.

Vandalism Is Solved at Three Summer Places

Solution to reported acts of vandalism and minor thefts at three summer homes in the town of Plattekill was claimed by the sheriff's department today.

The alleged wrong-doers turned out to be two boys, one nine and the other 12 years old, it was reported after investigation by County Investigator Arthur H. Brown and Deputy Sheriff Russell Carpenter. The parents of the boys agreed to pay for the damage, and no action was taken against the boys.

Brown said the boys entered three unoccupied summer places, committed general acts of vandalism and took some small items, which were recovered. At one of the places, they found a box of .22 calibre shells, emptied the powder on a wooden kitchen table. The powder ignited, scorching the wall, but fortunately the fire did not spread and apparently neither child was injured.

Stage Lighting for Home

A new light control system has been developed for homes permitting gradations in light intensity from complete darkness to full brightness. The usual on-and-off light switches are supplanted by rheostats, which operate on the dimmer principle used in theatres. They carry loads up to 360 watts. A movable brush contact rides on a resistance winding to enable a rotating knob to regulate the amount of light desired.

What Is Ceramic?

Anything made of baked clay whether porcelain or earthenware may be called ceramic, a word taken from the Greek "keramos" meaning pot. Ceramic bodies are either translucent and vitreous porcelain, stoneware which may or may not be translucent, and pottery which is porous and opaque.

Malden Receives New Fire Truck

The first of two fire trucks of the Malden-West Camp Fire District arrived at the Smith Truck Equipment Company garage in Stony Hollow on Thursday. Valmore Carpenter, fire chief of the Malden-West Camp Fire Company and Harry L. Moose, fire commissioner of the district inspected the new 1,000 gallon tank pumper which will be housed in the hamlet of Malden. The other truck which is identical will be delivered soon for the hamlet of West Camp.

The new pumper will be garaged in a specially remodeled garage of the Cody Coal and Grain Company until the Malden Fire Station, which is under construction, is completed.

Fire Chief Carpenter and other members of the company took delivery of the truck which will be taken to Knaust Bros. Garage, local GMC dealer where the truck and equipment will undergo final tests and from which a few shakedown road tests will be made.

According to Chief Carpenter the truck should be ready for action in the district within a week or 10 days. The arrival of the first truck coincides with the first anniversary of the new fire company which scheduled its annual meeting in West Camp on Thursday night. A celebration following the business meeting was held in the new fire station at West Camp.

Ohio Man to Be Representative

"Because much of the nation's economic and industrial activity centers in the southern section of the State of New York, we are sending a hand-picked man into that extremely promising area," Charles H. Standish, president and treasurer of Designers for Industry, Inc., a Cleveland, Ohio, research and development firm, announced today as he appointed Vern L. Ripley of Cleveland to the important post of DFI contracting representative for the three southern New York counties of Dutchess, Sullivan and Ulster.

"Ripley was selected because of his years of executive experience in the industrial, manufacturing, and production planning fields," Standish said.

The new contracting representative will also be official DFI contact for firms located in Long Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, and eastern Pennsylvania.

Numbered among DFI clients are such well known firms as: The American Chain and Cable Co., York, Pa.; Barnes Drill Co., Rockford, Ill., The Radio Corporation of America; Republic Steel Corp.; The Westinghouse Electric Corp.; and the Stromberg-Carlson Co.

Schweitzer Finds His Burden Heavy

Schweitzer, world-famed philosopher, physician, theologian and organist, wrote a long chatty letter to "friends of the hospital" he built at Lamberene to help natives suffering from tropical diseases.

The letter, published in the London News Chronicle, radiates selfless devotion of Schweitzer, a Nobel Peace Prize winner, to his mission.

HE APOLOGIZED for not reporting oftener to the friends of the hospital. He is two years behind in his correspondence. He will have nothing to do with typewriters and stenographers. For him a letter is a long struggle with a pen.

"More than once I have felt the need and obligation to let them (supporters of hospital) know how things have been shaping up for us since the war, and I started to do so several times," he wrote. "But I could never finish, either because I was interrupted by urgent work, or because I was too tired."

Life lately has been a ceaseless round of strenuous labor, Dr. Schweitzer said.

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—Erica Steel, a key prosecution witness in the 1953 vice trial of Minot (Mickey) Jelke, arrived by plane today from Los Angeles and said she has agreed to testify at the margarine heir's forthcoming retrial.

Miss Steel, 34, who had been sought by authorities on the West coast since New Year's Day, surrendered voluntarily in Los Angeles yesterday.

SHE TOLD NEWSMEN at Idlewild Airport today: "I thought it would be nice to get the whole thing over with."

Miss Steel's surrender followed issuance of an order for her to show cause why she should not be removed from her residence in Hollywood to New York to appear as a witness.

Wearing a mink stole and dark glasses as she alighted from the plane, Miss Steel was accompanied by Detective William Haughie and Asst. Dist. Atty. Daniel Hopper.

Miss Steel, asked if she would testify the "same way" as at the first trial, replied: "If they ask me the same questions."

SHE SAID SHE HAD GONE to Los Angeles last week when she learned she was being sought.

Before that, she said, she had been in Las Vegas, Nev., vacationing and rehearsing dancing for a hotel show.

Miss Steel left the airport with officers by car for the Criminal Courts Building in Manhattan.

Jelke was convicted two years ago of compulsory prostitution involving call girls who allegedly shared with him their date profits amounting to $100 a night.

The state Court of Appeals ordered a new trial, because press and public were barred from the courtroom during the prosecution phase of the case.

Teamsters Picket Knaust Cannery

Members of Albany Local 294, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, AFL, today were picketing the K. B. Products Inc. cannery at Hudson in a bid to be named bargaining agent for workers in the Knaust mushroom firm.

A spokesman for the union claimed local 294 has organized 250 workers including 60 truck drivers and asked the Knaust management to recognize the union as bargaining agent. The firm refused to meet with union representatives, the spokesman said, and the union has authorized the picket line.

Picketing at present is confined to the cannery at Hudson but may spread to other Knaust installations in the Hudson valley, the speaker said.

An application to the NLRB for the right to hold an election was denied on the grounds that the mushroom industry is classified as agriculture, and outside the jurisdiction of the NLRB, the union spokesman said.

Cashin in Line As Federal Judge

Albany, Jan. 14 (AP)—Miss Mary Donlon, former chairman of the State Workmen's Compensation Board, has been recommended for appointment as a federal judge in the southern district of New York, the Knickerbocker News said today.

The paper reported that a Republican leader who requested his name not be used confirmed that Miss Donlon had been recommended. She is a native of Utica and a New York city resident.

A vacancy was created in the southern district with the retirement of Judge Edward Conger on Nov. 1. The post pays $15,000 a year.

It was also reported that Westchester and Ulster counties had advanced candidates. No Westchester name was mentioned. Ulster Republicans were reported pushing County Judge John Cashin.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—In the quietest trading of the week, the stock market today pursued a narrowly mixed course.

There were a few changes either way going past a point, but most gains and losses were small.

Business progressed at a steady rate, but the pace was well under yesterday's 3,350,000 shares.

Steels held higher as a group, and coppers and distillers moved ahead. Most aircrafts and motion pictures were lower. Other major divisions were mixed. Some oils were active and higher.

Beech Aircraft moved up on a higher dividend, and also higher were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, National Distillers, American Telephone, Anaconda Copper, Westinghouse Air Brake, and Sunray Oil, which had a mid-day flurry of activity.

Vandalism Is Solved at Three Summer Places

Solution to reported acts of vandalism and minor thefts at three summer homes in the town of Plattekill was claimed by the sheriffs department today.

The alleged wrong-doers turned out to be two boys, one nine and the other 12 years old, it was reported after investigation by County Investigator Arthur H. Brown and Deputy Sheriff Russell Carpenter. The parents of the boys agreed to pay for the damage, and no action was taken against the boys.

Brown said the boys entered three unoccupied summer places, committed general acts of vandalism and took some small items, which were recovered. At one of the places, they found a box of .22 calibre shells, emptied the powder on a wooden kitchen table. The powder ignited, scorching the wall, but fortunately the fire did not spread and apparently neither child was injured.

Stage Lighting for Home

A new light control system has been developed for homes permitting gradations in light intensity from complete darkness to full brightness. The usual on-and-off light switches are supplanted by rheostats, which operate on the dimmer principle used in theatres. They carry loads up to 360 watts. A movable brush contact rides on a resistance winding to enable a rotating knob to regulate the amount of light desired.

What Is Ceramic?

Anything made of baked clay whether porcelain or earthenware may be called ceramic, a word taken from the Greek "keramos" meaning pot. Ceramic bodies are either translucent and vitreous porcelain, stoneware which may or may not be translucent, and pottery which is porous and opaque.

Malden Receives New Fire Truck

The first of two fire trucks of the Malden-West Camp Fire District arrived at the Smith Truck Equipment Company garage in Stony Hollow on Thursday. Valmore Carpenter, fire chief of the Malden-West Camp Fire Company and Harry L. Moose, fire commissioner of the district inspected the new 1,000 gallon tank pumper which will be housed in the hamlet of Malden. The other truck which is identical will be delivered soon for the hamlet of West Camp.

The new pumper will be garaged in a specially remodeled garage of the Cody Coal and Grain Company until the Malden Fire Station, which is under construction, is completed.

Fire Chief Carpenter and other members of the company took delivery of the truck which will be taken to Knaust Bros. Garage, local GMC dealer where the truck and equipment will undergo final tests and from which a few shakedown road tests will be made.

THIS IS THE FIRST of two new fire trucks for the Malden-West Camp Fire District pictured as it arrived Thursday at the Smith Truck Equipment Company, Stony Hollow, where Bernard Smith of the business firm and Chief Valmore Carpenter inspect its equipment. (Freeman photo).

According to Chief Carpenter the truck should be ready for action in the district within a week or 10 days. The arrival of the first truck coincides with the first anniversary of the new fire company which scheduled its annual meeting in West Camp on Thursday night. A celebration following the business meeting was held in the new fire station at West Camp.

The Highland Council of Church Women will hold its quarterly meeting at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening, Jan. 18, in the church school room of the Methodist Church. Among items of business to be discussed are plans for sewing for the town nurse, plans for an all-day retreat on the current mission study books and for the World Day of Prayer. All women interested in the work of the Council are cordially invited.

First place in the Ulster county section of the National high school oratorical contest held in the auditorium of the Central school Monday night was awarded to Lewis DiStasi, Jr., Highland, according to John C. Miller, chairman of the county oratorical committee. The judges awarded second place to Sondra Ashdown of St. Ursula's Convent, Kingston, and third place to Stanley Cohen, Ellenville. Nine schools originally entered the contest but on the afternoon of the contest New Paltz withdrew their candidate and the representative of the Onteora School failed to appear. The seven competing schools and their representatives on the platform were: St. Ursula's Academy, Kingston, Sondra Ashdown; Wallkill High School, Ray Denniston; Highland High School, Lewis DiStasi, Jr.; Kingston High School, John M. Snyder; Marlborough High School, Karen Wooolsey; Saugerties High School, Patricia Cunningham; Ellenville High School, Stanley Cohen. Miss Ashdown spoke on The Living Constitution; Ray Denniston on The Constitution—The Welfare of the People; Lewis DiStasi, Jr., on The Bill of Rights, How Fully Are You Protected; John Snyder on The Electoral College; Karen Woolsey on A Challenge to the Young People of America; Patricia Cunningham on The Men Who Were Not There, and Stanley Cohen on Our Constitution—Foundation of a Democracy.

Judges for the contest were Dr. Charles E. Baker and Dr. Roland G. Will of the English and social studies department of New Paltz State Teachers College, and Louis Bruhn, attorney in Kingston, a former Ulster county district attorney. In the absence of Donald Duignan, Ulster county commander, Past District Commander Everett Coty, Ellenville, introduced John C. Miller, oratorical chairman, who conducted the contest. Coty ordered the advance of the colors and color guard under command of Nicholas Marrone, Lloyd Post, commander. Hubert Perkins, principal of the host school, introduced by Coty, greeted contestants and guests. The National anthem was played by the school band under the direction of Robert Turner. Prior to intermission the band rendered a short interlude of music.

Contestants were escorted to the platform by Mario Ruggeri of the American Legion. Tom Bohan, former New York state vice commander, and David Murphy, former Lloyd Post commander, officiated as timekeepers. Walter Clark acted as teller and with Murphy assisted Coty and Chairman Miller in tabulating the scores. Miller announced the results of the contest and checks were awarded the winners by Commander Coty. According to Chairman Miller, who has been associated with this phase of Legion activity since its inception, this Ulster county contest produced a great number of different interpretations and applications of the constitution. He expressed regret that more people who claim the rights and privileges granted by the constitution are so little interested in learning about this great charter of American liberties.

Affects Young

Champaign-Urbana, Ill. (AP)—Chlorophyll fed in large amounts to animals may affect their offspring. This is the opinion of Drs. E. F. Reber and D. A. Willigan of the College of Veterinary Medicine of the University of Illinois. They reached the conclusion after recent tests in which they fed two groups of rats diets with and without chlorophyll. The rats fed chlorophyll showed no obvious effects and bore the usual number of young. But their hair coats were rough and developed a light green color and in many cases were weak, causing the rats to drag their legs. Only two of the six litters lived to weaning age. Mother rats fed chlorophyll did not provide so much milk and growth rate was slower until the rats reached weaning age.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., Jan. 13—Most readers of my column look at times for something in which to invest. It never occurs to them that there may be good local investments under their own noses. They want to invest in some big company and send their money to Wall Street.

WITH THE EXCEPTION of your local bank and certain chain stores, the telephone company which operates in your territory is probably your best investment, considering safety, income, and possibility for growth. The purpose of this column today is to praise the entire telephone industry, which is one of the fastest growing of all industries.

If you live in Bell territory, then purchase stock of your local Bell company or of the big American Telephone and Telegraph Company. This latter supplies the entire nation—Bell and Independents — with "long-distance" service. If you do not live in Bell territory, then consider the stock of your Independent telephone system, provided it is one of the 373 which report annually to the U. S. Independent Telephone Association at Munsey Building, Washington, D. C.

With the exception of the big General Telephone Company, which is the largest "Independent," most of these 373 Independents are locally owned—165 have annual gross earnings of over $250,000; while 101 of these have gross of less than $100,000; but nearly all of them show constant growth. Moreover each has monopoly which very few businesses have. Their total exchanges number 4,684, with over 9,000,000 telephones, and 100,000 employes.

LET ME ADD that there are 4,850 other little telephone companies in addition to the 373 which I recommend above, plus 60,000 mutually-owned farmers' lines. Altogether the Independents have over $1,500,000,000 invested, with total annual gross of about $500,000,000 or 10 per cent of what the Bell System has. But of every six telephones being used in the U. S., one telephone is an "Independent." This insures complete co-operation from the Bell System with the use of all its connecting lines and facilities. Yes, the Independents have "one in every six telephones" covering two-thirds the area of the U. S.

I AM ESPECIALLY interested in all "Independents," believing that the future of America depends upon encouraging the Independents in every line of business. Too many big companies will lead us to Socialism. Investors are "cutting their own throats" by buying only the "bluechip" stocks, or the 30 Dow-Jones Industrials. We should give more encouragement to smaller companies—first, for the good of the nation, and secondly, because most new improvements come through the smaller companies.

The first automatic telephone system was installed by a La Porte, Indiana, "Independent." The first dial system was introduced by an "Independent." The first hand-set telephone and selective ringing was introduced by the "Independents." Bigness encourages smugness and bureaucracy. Had it not been for the fighting "Independents" in every line of business, we would not have the many conveniences which we have today. Yes, and prices for everything would be higher and wages lower.

THE INCANDESCENT LAMP, the automobile, fountain pens, hearing aids, vacuum cleaners, Kodak cameras, radios, flashlights, paper towels, electric heating pads, refrigerators, irons, toasters, etc., zippers, frozen foods, powdered coffee, long-playing records, colored movies, penicillin, and many other household blessings were invented and first marketed by small independent companies. Then the big companies came along to swallow up the markets.

Furthermore, so long as the advertising rates by magazines, radio, and T. V. are the same for a small pioneering company as for a great big company, so long will the "Independents" be unfairly handicapped, both in selling and raising capital. One final thought: Although the big Bell companies operate in most of the big cities, yet the Independents serve nearly twice as many communities! I am putting my money into "Independents."

By the Numbers

Des Moines (AP)—There was a striking similarity when two cars collided at any intersection here. Thomas C. Raymond Jr., 20, had license number 77-28372 and James H. Kauten, 43, had 77-28373.

Word has been received from the National High School Poetry Association that a poem entitled A Friend written by David Lee Therrien, a senior in the local Central school, has been selected for inclusion in the annual Anthology of High School Poetry. The association publishes each year a collection of foremost poems written by high school students in the United States.

The Highland Council of Church Women will hold its quarterly meeting at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening, Jan. 18, in the church school room of the Methodist Church. Among items of business to be discussed are plans for sewing for the town nurse, plans for an all-day retreat on the current mission study books and for the World Day of Prayer. All women interested in the work of the Council are cordially invited.

First place in the Ulster county section of the National high school oratorical contest held in the auditorium of the Central school Monday night was awarded to Lewis DiStasi, Jr., Highland, according to John C. Miller, chairman of the county oratorical committee. The judges awarded second place to Sondra Ashdown of St. Ursula's Convent, Kingston, and third place to Stanley Cohen, Ellenville. Nine schools originally entered the contest but on the afternoon of the contest New Paltz withdrew their candidate and the representative of the Onteora School failed to appear. The seven competing schools and their representatives on the platform were: St. Ursula's Academy, Kingston, Sondra Ashdown; Wallkill High School, Ray Denniston; Highland High School, Lewis DiStasi, Jr.; Kingston High School, John M. Snyder; Marlborough High School, Karen Woolsey; Saugerties High School, Patricia Cunningham; Ellenville High School, Stanley Cohen. Miss Ashdown spoke on The Living Constitution; Ray Denniston on The Constitution—The Welfare of the People; Lewis DiStasi, Jr., on The Bill of Rights, How Fully Are You Protected; John Snyder on The Electoral College; Karen Woolsey on A Challenge to the Young People of America; Patricia Cunningham on The Men Who Were Not There, and Stanley Cohen on Our Constitution—Foundation of a Democracy.

Judges for the contest were Dr. Charles E. Baker and Dr. Roland G. Will of the English and social studies department of New Paltz State Teachers College, and Louis Bruhn, attorney in Kingston, a former Ulster county district attorney. In the absence of Donald Duignan, Ulster county commander, Past District Commander Everett Coty, Ellenville, introduced John C. Miller, oratorical chairman, who conducted the contest. Coty ordered the advance of the colors and color guard under command of Nicholas Marrone, Lloyd Post, commander. Hubert Perkins, principal of the host school, introduced by Coty, greeted contestants and guests. The National anthem was played by the school band under the direction of Robert Turner. Prior to intermission the band rendered a short interlude of music.

Contestants were escorted to the platform by Mario Ruggeri of the American Legion. Tom Bohan, former New York state vice commander, and David Murphy, former Lloyd Post commander, officiated as timekeepers. Walter Clark acted as teller and with Murphy assisted Coty and Chairman Miller in tabulating the scores. Miller announced the results of the contest and checks were awarded the winners by Commander Coty. According to Chairman Miller, who has been associated with this phase of Legion activity since its inception, this Ulster county contest produced a great number of different interpretations and applications of the constitution. He expressed regret that more people who claim the rights and privileges granted by the constitution are so little interested in learning about this great charter of American liberties.

Affects Young

Champaign-Urbana, Ill. (AP)—Chlorophyll fed in large amounts to animals may affect their offspring. This is the opinion of Drs. E. F. Reber and D. A. Willigan of the College of Veterinary Medicine of the University of Illinois. They reached the conclusion after recent tests in which they fed two groups of rats diets with and without chlorophyll. The rats fed chlorophyll showed no obvious effects and bore the usual number of young. But their hair coats were rough and developed a light green color and in many cases were weak, causing the rats to drag their legs. Only two of the six litters lived to weaning age. Mother rats fed chlorophyll did not provide so much milk and growth rate was slower until the rats reached weaning age.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., Jan. 13—Most readers of my column look at times for something in which to invest. It never occurs to them that there may be good local investments under their own noses. They want to invest in some big company and send their money to Wall Street.

WITH THE EXCEPTION of your local bank and certain chain stores, the telephone company which operates in your territory is probably your best investment, considering safety, income, and possibility for growth. The purpose of this column today is to praise the entire telephone industry, which is one of the fastest growing of all industries.

If you live in Bell territory, then purchase stock of your local Bell company or of the big American Telephone and Telegraph Company. This latter supplies the entire nation—Bell and Independents — with "long-distance" service. If you do not live in Bell territory, then consider the stock of your Independent telephone system, provided it is one of the 373 which report annually to the U. S. Independent Telephone Association at Munsey Building, Washington, D. C.

With the exception of the big General Telephone Company, which is the largest "Independent," most of these 373 Independents are locally owned—165 have annual gross earnings of over $250,000; while 101 of these have gross of less than $100,000; but nearly all of them show constant growth. Moreover each has monopoly which very few businesses have. Their total exchanges number 4,684, with over 9,000,000 telephones, and 100,000 employes.

LET ME ADD that there are 4,850 other little telephone companies in addition to the 373 which I recommend above, plus 60,000 mutually-owned farmers' lines. Altogether the Independents have over $1,500,000,000 invested, with total annual gross of about $500,000,000 or 10 per cent of what the Bell System has. But of every six telephones being used in the U. S., one telephone is an "Independent." This insures complete co-operation from the Bell System with the use of all its connecting lines and facilities. Yes, the Independents have "one in every six telephones" covering two-thirds the area of the U. S.

I AM ESPECIALLY interested in all "Independents," believing that the future of America depends upon encouraging the Independents in every line of business. Too many big companies will lead us to Socialism. Investors are "cutting their own throats" by buying only the "bluechip" stocks, or the 30 Dow-Jones Industrials. We should give more encouragement to smaller companies—first, for the good of the nation, and secondly, because most new improvements come through the smaller companies.

The first automatic telephone system was installed by a La Porte, Indiana, "Independent." The first dial system was introduced by an "Independent." The first hand-set telephone and selective ringing was introduced by the "Independents." Bigness encourages smugness and bureaucracy. Had it not been for the fighting "Independents" in every line of business, we would not have the many conveniences which we have today. Yes, and prices for everything would be higher and wages lower.

THE INCANDESCENT LAMP, the automobile, fountain pens, hearing aids, vacuum cleaners, Kodak cameras, radios, flashlights, paper towels, electric heating pads, refrigerators, irons, toasters, etc., zippers, frozen foods, powdered coffee, long-playing records, colored movies, penicillin, and many other household blessings were invented and first marketed by small independent companies. Then the big companies came along to swallow up the markets.

Furthermore, so long as the advertising rates by magazines, radio, and T. V. are the same for a small pioneering company as for a great big company, so long will the "Independents" be unfairly handicapped, both in selling and raising capital. One final thought: Although the big Bell companies operate in most of the big cities, yet the Independents serve nearly twice as many communities! I am putting my money into "Independents."

TAXES AND RAINBOWS

Your government, not to be outdone by Hollywood, presents this year's thrilling edition of the income tax forms in glorious color. There are red stripes on the form if your income is in the five to ten thousand bracket, yellow for the married taxpayer whose income is ten thousand or more. A green stripe on the form indicates farm income and a blue stripe means business income.

Busy as they are down there in Washington it was nice of them to take the time to bring a bit of color into our ordinarily dull lives. We wonder, however, if use of that red stripe isn't just a bit injudicious—throwing the color red in a man's face along with the bad news about his taxes is rubbing it in, don't you think? The blue is appropriate enough to match the mood of a taxpayer at such moments and the green might suit his shade of envy when he recalls the taxes his grandfather used to pay.

It really makes very little difference that color has been introduced into tax forms—as long as the people responsible know where to stop. If they were to become impressed with their own artistry and send out next year's forms in 3-D or CinemaScope it would be more than we could bear.

MEMORIAL FOR TAFT

A private foundation to honor the late Senator Robert A. Taft has decided that his memorial should take the form of a bell-tower in Washington, a program of scholarships and a bipartisan institute of government in New York.

The carillon, it is hoped, will be erected near the Capitol. The ringing of the bell would symbolize the ideals for which the late Senator lived.

The idea of a memorial for Senator Taft is worthy and deserves support from people of all political faiths. He was a man who stood steadfast for the things in which he believed and yet he always demonstrated a keen respect for the ideas of others.

It is proper that we should honor the memory of men who have achieved great things in their lifetime. The proposals to honor Senator Taft seem practical and could assure that his memory will be perpetuated in the most useful manner.

SAVED FROM SOCIALISM

Just how effective is the press of America in promoting sound public policies and in helping to stimulate intelligent thinking on public issues?

A striking answer is provided by an article in Editor & Publisher. It begins: "Newspapers saved California from state socialism and maintained free enterprise through the crises imposed by successive eras of internal reform, boom, depression and inflation, Governor Goodwin J. Knight told the California Press Association. . . ."

A free press, which is conscious of its vast obligations to the nation, is the greatest defender of the people's liberties—and the most powerful weapon against tyranny. That's the kind of press the United States has.

Several years ago Yugoslavia ended its satellite relationship with the Soviet Union. Despite this the West must never be deluded into believing that Yugoslavia is a democracy or shows any sign of moving in that direction. The power of the state over the individual is as absolute in Yugoslavia today as it was when its policies were dictated from the Kremlin.

The business forecasters now have all had their fling. And if we can be as optimistic at home as they seem to be at the office and factory, 1955 will continue fine.

An alert and interested mind can be the best insurance. It guards against the difficulties of old age, budgets and strife, not to mention nearly everything else.

That knock on the door, alas, isn't always opportunity—bill collectors use the same approach!

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

JAY LOVESTONE SPEAKS

Because there has been so much discussion of the role that Jay Lovestone plays in the work of the American Federation of Labor abroad, I asked him two questions: 1. On what occasions and in what specific terms have you denounced not only Soviet Communism but Marxism generally? 2. Concretely, how have you been fighting the Communist evil and for how long?

Lovestone put his reply in the form of a letter which I give herewith. Jay Lovestone was one of the organizers of the American Communist Party. He was its leader prior to 1929 when he was removed by order of Stalin. Subsequently, he organized his own Communist group known as the "Lovestonites," which became anti-Communist in 1936 and was disbanded in 1940. The following is his statement:

"From the very moment that I broke with the Communist Party, more than a quarter of a century ago, I fought Soviet totalitarianism. My struggle against Communism and every dictatorship—Marxist, Leninist, Trotskyist, Stalinist, Fascist, Nazi, Falangist, Titoist—became uncompromising as I unlearned and learned through experience and study. On September 30, 1939, in the heydays of American appeasement of Moscow, I wrote: 'The various Communist parties of the world are not political parties in the sense one speaks of such organizations in Western Europe and America.' I then characterized all such parties as 'police parties' which have become 'mere agencies of the Russian foreign-affairs department and the G.P.U.' and transformed into 'agencies of the Hitler-Stalin military alliance.'

"Warning against the danger of failing to evaluate properly the Communist movement, I wrote on April 27, 1940: 'It is the failure to grasp this cardinal characteristic of Stalinist organization today that has made so many honest, well-meaning liberals go into the camp of fellow-limpers, or to become even outright stooges.'

"At the close of 1940, the Independent Labor League, of which I was General Secretary, was dissolved. In its statement of dissolution, I emphasized: 'All the organizations, parties and groups that have come out of the old Socialist and Communist movements have lost their ground of existence. . . . The existing Socialist and radical groups are essentially out of touch with American life and its problems. . . . They cling to old phrases and fetishes, to formulas and shibboleths long obsolete, with a pathetic blindness. . . .'

"Because of my loyalty to the free labor movement and realization that Communism and every other brand of dictatorship are mortal enemies of human dignity, decency, freedom of conscience and liberty, I continued my fight against this grave menace. From May 1941 to June 1944, I served as Secretary of the Labor Division of the Committee to Defend America. Since July 1944, I have been director of the International Relations Department of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union—the pioneer and driving force of American labor's fight against Communism. Simultaneously, I have been serving as Executive Secretary of the American Federation of Labor Free Trade Union Committee, internationally known for its fight against Communism and every other form of totalitarian subversion at home and abroad where free trade unions need assistance in defeating Communist infiltration.

"Under A.F. of L. Executive Council guidance, the Free Trade Union Committee initiated the worldwide campaign against slave labor, published the world-renowned slave labor map of Russia, spearheaded the fight against organizing the Kremlin-concocted World Federation of Trade Union and for its subsequent breakup. Through its 'International Free Trade Union News,' published monthly in English, French, German and Italian, we have refuted Communist and other foreign slanders against America and enlightened world labor and the colonial peoples about conditions behind the Iron Curtain and the Moscow-Peiping role as the infernal enemy of peace, national independence and freedom. Our initiative in exposing the extensive Chinese Communist atrocities against American and other UN war prisoners in Korea won official recognition.

"Today, the A.F. of L., in no small measure through its Free Trade Union Committee, opposes vigorously (1) every Communist and Titoist maneuver to penetrate the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions; (2) every effort to recognize and admit Communist China into the UN; (3) extending trade relations with Soviet orbit; (4) putting faith in the Kremlin's 'new look' and 'co-existence' hoax; (5) slackening American rearmament and free world collective security measures. Various Free Trade Union Committee publications have been used extensively by Defense Agencies striving to educate armed services personnel about the Communist menace.

Jay Lovestone."

PROBLEMS OF STUTTERING

I have written several times about stuttering, the underlying cause of which appears to be self-consciousness rather than any defect in the speech mechanism itself, although this may occur in some cases. Thus it is known that when the stutterer is alone and talking to himself, he has no difficulty with his speech. Many cases have been treated successfully by the use of the telephone and by taking part in theatricals in which the sufferer knows what he is going to say in advance and then seems to have less trouble saying it. However, it is only fair to point out that such cures are generally in the minority.

Even the forward advances in psychiatry have not greatly benefitted the stutterer. It is not enough to ignore the symptoms of stuttering and believe that if the underlying personality disturbance is removed, the stuttering will automatically stop because this does not happen. This recent and popular theory that stuttered speech is the symptom of an underlying neurosis may be partially true for the later stages of stuttering where anxiety is present, but would not appear to apply to the early primary stage when the young child is just beginning to talk.

This primary stutterer says M-m-m-Mummy or D-d-d-d-Daddy and for the brief moment of this speech difficulty he may seem a little confused, although not self-conscious or embarrassed. It would seem that this condition may be only temporary: the child may speak in this manner for hours, days or even weeks and then it passes away.

However, there are too many adult stutterers to hope that this will happen in every case. There is a very small percentage, especially females, who do seem to improve during puberty. Another popular notion is that a breathing disturbance is a cause of stuttering but it is now known that this is a result of advanced stuttering rather than the cause.

Among the interesting findings about stuttering is that it occurs in about 1.5 per cent of the school population. Forced changing of a left-handed person to a right-handed one is thought to be a cause but this does not take into consideration the number of stutterers who are right or left handed but never forced to change. Also, the ratio of male to female stutterers varies from a three-to-one to ten-to-one majority of males. Since it is known that females develop normal speech earlier than males, there may be some reason here to believe that stuttering is associated with normal speech development.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — Why people want to make a career of working for the U. S. government is sometimes something of a mystery.

True enough, for the pick-and-shovel workers there are long vacations, liberal sick leave with pay whether they're sick or not, and assured pensions on retirement.

There are promotions in grade for those who plod along, keeping their noses clean and their necks in. There are a few incentive rewards for employes who come up with suggestions for increasing efficiency or saving Uncle Sam money.

But it takes an act of Congress to get a general pay raise like the one this new Congress will probably pass. And for employes who work their way from bottom to top, a kick in the pants is the reward as often as not.

THE LIST OF RECENT cases proving these points is impressive:

B. T. Fitzpatrick, fired as general counsel of Housing and Home Finance Administration after 21 years to make way for a lame duck Republican congressman who had voted against government housing programs ten times.

Wolf Ladejinsky, father of land reform in Japan, was fired as U. S. agriculture attache in Tokyo. The Agriculture Department's security officer said the fact that Ladejinsky, who was born in Russia, has relatives still living in Russia is enough to withhold security clearance.

This ruling touched off a controversy, since the State Department had cleared him even though it had the same information on him.

The uproar reached the White House and Ladejinsky wound up in Harold Stassen's Foreign Operations Administration where he will help with the land reform program in South Viet Nam.

The case of atomic scientist Robert Oppenheimer is familiar to everyone. For merely having supported Dr. Oppenheimer's position, Dr. John Von Neumann now faces a stiff battle getting Senate confirmation as a member of the Atomic Energy Commission.

State Department career man John Paton Davies, cleared in nine separate loyalty investigations, is nevertheless let go because he is a controversial figure they don't know how else to handle.

THESE CASES PRESENT a mixture of the Eisenhower administration's security program with a straight Republican political housecleaning. It is sometimes difficult to tell where one leaves off and the other begins. But a clarification now seems to be in the making.

The purge of government workers may have run its course. It was somewhat naturally carried to excesses in the zeal for rooting every subversive influence out of government. But exaggerated claims on the number of firings for disloyalty have deflated the inquisition. The Senate's condemnation proceedings against Senator Joseph R. McCarthy completed the flattening-out. A few key court cases are putting the matter in better perspective.

Val R. Lorwin, University of Chicago professor and former State Department employe, won a six-year fight to clear his name of charges of communism. When the government could produce no evidence, perjury charges against him were dropped.

Now before the Supreme Court on appeal is the case of Dr. John P. Peters of Yale. Discharged from the Public Health Service on charges of disloyalty without being informed of or confronted by those who made the charges against him, he has sued for reinstatement.

LYLE L. ROBERTSON, discharged by Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation in a thinly disguised political move, has sued for reinstatement to protect his 26-year Civil Service record.

Democratic leaders in Congress have another angle in investigating administration firings of career government workers to make places for GOP patronage appointees.

The Eisenhower administration itself may take the lead in trying to straighten out this mess by revising both its security program regulations and its political job program.

The survival of the entire Civil Service system—based on a non-political, career employment for all government workers—is now at stake.

The Pentecost, celebrated by both the Christian and Jewish faiths, is the most ancient religious holiday in the world.

What to Do With Security Program Is Vital Matter at Capital

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 14 — Uniformity of treatment for every citizen who is the subject of examination by the government to determine whether, as a present or future employe, he may be a "security risk" is generally accepted here as desirable.

Yet it is becoming evident that the procedures are not uniform and that the rules are not standardized and that many pressure groups really don't want everybody treated alike.

Thus, when a government board finds that a man has been lying and that he misled the intelligence officers of the government, his supporters cry out that he is being punished just for telling what one of them described as a few "whimsical lies." Despite the fact that the employe under investigation was proved a liar to his own government, there is insistence that he be "cleared" because he is valuable or may be valuable in government work.

In another instance, an employe is cleared by one department but not by another, and the criterion in each case should have been the same. It is well known that one of the factors in determining a "security risk" is whether he has members of his family behind the Iron Curtain and thus could be subjected to blackmail here by Soviet agents. If that's the rule in one case, it is onlly fair to apply it in all cases or rescind it for everybody.

President Eisenhower concedes that the present security program can be improved and that it is under constant study. Senator Humphrey of Minnesota, Democrat, has suggested that a national commission — composed of legislators, officials of the executive branch and private citizens—be appointed to study the subject. Mr. Eisenhower at his press conference was asked about using a commission of private citizens, but he got the impression that what was meant by the question was a board such as President Truman appointed. It was called the President's Loyalty Review Board. Mr. Eisenhower said he didn't think much of taking up the idea again.

Actually, there is more than meets the eye in both kinds—the board appointed by the President to review what the departmental boards do and a national commission to study the problem, which is what the Minnesota senator had in mind. They are two separate things, and it is unfortunate that the difference wasn't made clear at Wednesday's press conference.

Early in the present administration, former Senator Bingham of Connecticut, Republican, who was chairman of the Loyalty Review Board under the Truman administration, counseled the Department of Justice against abolshing that board, together with the trained staff it had assembled and the panel of lawyers it had utilized in handling appeals. But the board was abolished because the present administration felt that the category of "loyalty" should be merged and all cases considered under the "security risk" class.

Under the Truman administration, the Loyalty Review Board had no jurisdiction over security cases and each department's judgment was final. Obviously there was and still is as great a need for a review board for security cases as there was for "loyalty" cases. It is also an advantage to have a panel of lawyers not connected with any department of the government to help review the appeals and the auditing of or checking up on departmental decisions.

The whole problem of handling security risks as to persons who have at one time or another had Communist sympathies or affiliations is difficult from an administrative viewpoint. There is no easy answer.

It is interesting, for example, now after several months delay, to read the army's report on the case of Major Peress, against whom Senator McCarthy directed his fire in an attempt to prevent an honorable discharge being given to a man about whom there was testimony that he was a Communist and who had failed to answer questions about it on his army papers. Now, when the facts come out about the case, few of the critics of the Wisconsin senator are willing to say he was right in his original quest. The "Washington Post"—which has been one of the most severe critics of Senator McCarthy for the last several years—however, is very outspoken. The "Post" says editorially, after a review of the report:

"Thus there appears to have been a good deal of justification for Senator McCarthy's ire at the army's handling of the Peress case—though the confusion did not by any means justify McCarthy's abuse of General Zwicker or the other indignities perpetrated by the senator. Nevertheless, the army's long delay in making the Peress chronology public has served only to compound the senatorial feeling that its (the army's) whole attitude was uncooperative and evasive."

Provocation to anger arises under such circumstances, as an executive department fails to make prompt disclosure of the facts. Through all such cases, however, the public is aroused to the importance of finding a solution, and congressional committees can give invaluable help through constant investigation of the defects in the security system.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I confess that I am fascinated by my belated discovery of the sinister power which a mysterious twirp exerted over our republic and our lives in both the Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt administrations. I refer to E. M. House. Somehow, the American press of the two periods booted this story in a flagrant failure if not a willful default of its duty to the constitution under which it has enjoyed not only freedom but political power. That political power was not conferred by stated intention of the men who carefully created our constitution. But the power of the press soon became manifest. Today it is exerted by the suppression of knowledge because that knowledge would embarrass friends of monopolistic press corporations both in public office and in business. The educational system on which we spend countless millions also suppresses and distorts historical information.

Specifically, the educational system has absolutely ignored the baleful influence of E. M. House and the crude declaration of his ambition to destroy our constitutional government and substitute elements of dictatorship which have actually been inflicted on us under those two Democratic administrations. The press fought only a half-hearted rear-guard action during those 28 years, including the Truman extension of the F. D. Roosevelt reign. I use the word "reign" advisedly.

William F. McCombs wrote in his memoir of the Wilson administration, an obscure book published in 1924, after he and Wilson were dead, that Wilson admired the British royal system, openly called himself premier and believed that a President should be elected for life.

"He overrode Congress and made it a creature of his whims," McCombs told us from the grave. "His juggernaut crushed those who dared oppose him. He imperiously strode a world stage."

Had McCombs lived into F. D. Roosevelt's reign (and remember that Roosevelt's wife had the leering effrontery to refer to him in print as our "elected ruler") he could have put us on guard by pointing out that Roosevelt flew to Chicago, descending from the clouds to accept his first nomination, on the advice of E. M. House. This was a dramatic venture then. Hitler often did likewise. Immediately afterward, Roosevelt hastened to House's New England home at Beverly, Mass., to consult the author of the anonymous revolutionary prophecy, "Philip Dru: Administrator." To be sure, we knew of Roosevelt's call on House. But few of us know to this day the pernicious meaning of that consultation. The vast "educational" machine drops an iron curtain between this phase of our history, occurring within our own time, and the pupils entrusted to the system.

McCombs confirms reports, culled from other writers, that House horned into the intimate circle of Woodrow Wilson and selected most of his cabinet. House, a Texan living in New York, had about one million dollars, and no occupation except manipulating politicians. He got away with his revolution at the cost of the American people and nation without contributing a single dime to the Wilson campaign. McCombs says he was the one who introduced House to Wilson in 1911 when McCombs, a precocious Princeton alumnus, was scurrying around for delegates to nominate his "ideal." Thereafter, House was around Wilson's political headquarters as "observer."

McCombs' book has a whole chapter entitled "House the Intriguer."

In the spring of 1912, the election year, McCombs again went to Beverly and House said to him: "Wilson cannot be nominated. I think I can do something with Bryan and if you will turn the Wilson forces over to Culberson, you and I will control the United States for four years."

Remember that this book, "making Woodrow Wilson President," was written in 1920 or earlier and published in 1924. McCombs at first thought House was a "puny intriguer" but he admitted, in his last days, that "when this conversion is analyzed in the light of subsequent events, much may be augured of what happened during Wilson's incumbency as president."

House was obsequious in Wilson's presence and "nobody seemed to know that he was becoming influential until after the inauguration."

This I think, is one of the most important revelations in the political literature of our time:

"It was well known that House put Bryan, Burleson, McReynolds and Houston into the cabinet. He did this out of hand. House was responsible for most of the important appointments. His hand was evident in some of the great mistakes in Wilson's executive politics as well as his legislative suggestions. He created an air of mystery by being with the President and refusing to talk. He liked publicity. He liked to create, through his atmosphere of mystery, a conviction of greatness.

"In Feb. 1913, House appeared at my apartment and said, 'Now, if we can fix this thing up among us, McAdoo and you and I will control the United States for the next four years.' Later, nothing that House or McAdoo desired was turned down. I have been told by hundreds of truthful men that when they wanted anything done in Washington it was essential to get the approval of House."

And this House was already the author of a transparent novel which was actually a program for the abolition of the Constitution and the installation of a Nazi-Fascist dictator called the "administrator."

TAXES AND RAINBOWS

Your government, not to be outdone by Hollywood, presents this year's thrilling edition of the income tax forms in glorious color. There are red stripes on the form if your income is in the five to ten thousand bracket, yellow for the married taxpayer whose income is ten thousand or more. A green stripe on the form indicates farm income and a blue stripe means business income.

Busy as they are down there in Washingington it was nice of them to take the time to bring a bit of color into our ordinarily dull lives. We wonder, however, if use of that red stripe isn't just a bit injudicious—throwing the color red in a man's face along with the bad news about his taxes is rubbing it in, don't you think? The blue is appropriate enough to match the mood of a taxpayer at such moments and the green might suit his shade of envy when he recalls the taxes his grandfather used to pay.

It really makes very little difference that color has been introduced into tax forms—as long as the people responsible know where to stop. If they were to become impressed with their own artistry and send out next year's forms in 3-D or Cinema-Scope it would be more than we could bear.

MEMORIAL FOR TAFT

A private foundation to honor the late Senator Robert A. Taft has decided that his memorial should take the form of a bell-tower in Washington, a program of scholarships and a bipartisan institute of government in New York.

The carillon, it is hoped, will be erected near the Capitol. The ringing of the bell would symbolize the ideals for which the late Senator lived.

The idea of a memorial for Senator Taft is worthy and deserves support from people of all political faiths. He was a man who stood steadfast for the things in which he believed and yet he always demonstrated a keen respect for the ideas of others.

It is proper that we should honor the memory of men who have achieved great things in their lifetime. The proposals to honor Senator Taft seem practical and could assure that his memory will be perpetuated in the most useful manner.

SAVED FROM SOCIALISM

Just how effective is the press of America in promoting sound public policies and in helping to stimulate intelligent thinking on public issues?

A striking answer is provided by an article in Editor & Publisher. It begins: "Newspapers saved California from state socialism and maintained free enterprise through the crises imposed by successive eras of internal reform, boom, depression and inflation, Governor Goodwin J. Knight told the California Press Association. . . ."

A free press, which is conscious of its vast obligations to the nation, is the greatest defender of the people's liberties—and the most powerful weapon against tyranny. That's the kind of press the United States has.

Several years ago Yugoslavia ended its satellite relationship with the Soviet Union. Despite this the West must never be deluded into believing that Yugoslavia is a democracy or shows any sign of moving in that direction. The power of the state over the individual is as absolute in Yugoslavia today as it was when its policies were dictated from the Kremlin.

The business forecasters now have all had their fling. And if we can be as optimistic at home as they seem to be at the office and factory, 1955 will continue fine.

An alert and interested mind can be the best insurance. It guards against the difficulties of old age, budgets and strife, not to mention nearly everything else.

That knock on the door, alas, isn't always opportunity—bill collectors use the same approach!

'These Days'

JAY LOVESTONE SPEAKS

Because there has been so much discussion of the role that Jay Lovestone plays in the work of the American Federation of Labor abroad, I asked him two questions: 1. On what occasions and in what specific terms have you denounced not only Soviet Communism but Marxism generally? 2. Concretely, how have you been fighting the Communist evil and for how long?

Lovestone put his reply in the form of a letter which I give herewith. Jay Lovestone was one of the organizers of the American Communist Party. He was its leader prior to 1929 when he was removed by order of Stalin. Subsequently, he organized his own Communist group known as the "Lovestonites," which became anti-Communist in 1936 and was disbanded in 1940. The following is his statement:

"From the very moment that I broke with the Communist Party, more than a quarter of a century ago, I fought Soviet totalitarianism. My struggle against Communism and every dictatorship—Marxist, Leninist, Trotskyist, Stalinist, Fascist, Nazi, Falangist, Titoist—became uncompromising as I unlearned and learned through experience and study. On September 30, 1939, in the heydays of American appeasement of Moscow, I wrote: 'The various Communist parties of the world are not political parties in the sense one speaks of such organizations in Western Europe and America.' I then characterized all such parties as 'police parties' which have become 'mere agencies of the Russian foreign-affairs department and the G.P.U.' and transformed into 'agencies of the Hitler-Stalin military alliance.'

"Warning against the danger of failing to evaluate properly the Communist movement, I wrote on April 27, 1940: 'It is the failure to grasp this cardinal characteristic of Stalinist organization today that has made so many honest, well-meaning liberals go into the camp of fellow-limpers, or to become even outright stooges.'

"At the close of 1940, the Independent Labor League, of which I was General Secretary, was dissolved. In its statement of dissolution, I emphasized: 'All the organizations, parties and groups that have come out of the old Socialist and Communist movements have lost their ground of existence. . . . The existing Socialist and radical groups are essentially out of touch with American life and its problems. . . . They cling to old phrases and fetishes, to formulas and shibboleths long obsolete, with a pathetic blindness. . . .'

"Because of my loyalty to the free labor movement and realization that Communism and every other brand of dictatorship are mortal enemies of human dignity, decency, freedom of conscience and liberty, I continued my fight against this grave menace. From May 1941 to June 1944, I served as Secretary of the Labor Division of the Committee to Defend America. Since July 1944, I have been director of the International Relations Department of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union—the pioneer and driving force of American labor's fight against Communism. Simultaneously, I have been serving as Executive Secretary of the American Federation of Labor Free Trade Union Committee, internationally known for its fight against Communism and every other form of totalitarian subversion at home and abroad where free trade unions need assistance in defeating Communist infiltration.

"Under A.F. of L. Executive Council guidance, the Free Trade Union Committee initiated the worldwide campaign against slave labor, published the world-renowned slave labor map of Russia, spearheaded the fight against organizing the Kremlin-concocted World Federation of Trade Union and for its subsequent breakup. Through its 'International Free Trade Union News,' published monthly in English, French, German and Italian, we have refuted Communist and other foreign slanders against America and enlightened world labor and the colonial peoples about conditions behind the Iron Curtain and the Moscow-Peiping role as the infernal enemy of peace, national independence and freedom. Our initiative in exposing the extensive Chinese Communist atrocities against American and other UN war prisoners in Korea won official recognition.

"Today, the A.F. of L., in no small measure through its Free Trade Union Committee, opposes vigorously (1) every Communist and Titoist maneuver to penetrate the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions; (2) every effort to recognize and admit Communist China into the UN; (3) extending trade relations with Soviet orbit; (4) putting faith in the Kremlin's 'new look' and 'co-existence' hoax; (5) slackening American rearmament and free world collective security measures. Various Free Trade Union Committee publications have been used extensively by Defense Agencies striving to educate armed services personnel about the Communist menace.

Jay Lovestone."

PROBLEMS OF STUTTERING

I have written several times about stuttering, the underlying cause of which appears to be self-consciousness rather than any defect in the speech mechanism itself, although this may occur in some cases. Thus it is known that when the stutterer is alone and talking to himself, he has no difficulty with his speech. Many cases have been treated successfully by the use of the telephone and by taking part in theatricals in which the sufferer knows what he is going to say in advance and then seems to have less trouble saying it. However, it is only fair to point out that such cures are generally in the minority.

Even the forward advances in psychiatry have not greatly benefitted the stutterer. It is not enough to ignore the symptoms of stuttering and believe that if the underlying personality disturbance is removed, the stuttering will automatically stop because this does not happen. This recent and popular theory that stuttered speech is the symptom of an underlying neurosis may be partially true for the later stages of stuttering where anxiety is present, but would not appear to apply to the early primary stage when the young child is just beginning to talk.

This primary stutterer says M-m-m-Mummy or D-d-d-d-Daddy and for the brief moment of this speech difficulty he may seem a little confused, although not self-conscious or embarrassed. It would seem that this condition may be only temporary: the child may speak in this manner for hours, days or even weeks and then it passes away.

However, there are too many adult stutterers to hope that this will happen in every case. There is a very small percentage, especially females, who do seem to improve during puberty. Another popular notion is that a breathing disturbance is a cause of stuttering but it is now known that this is a result of advanced stuttering rather than the cause.

Among the interesting findings about stuttering is that it occurs in about 1.5 per cent of the school population. Forced changing of a left-handed person to a right-handed one is thought to be a cause but this does not take into consideration the number of stutterers who are right or left handed but never forced to change. Also, the ratio of male to female stutterers varies from a three-to-one to ten-to-one majority of males. Since it is known that females develop normal speech earlier than males, there may be some reason here to believe that stuttering is associated with normal speech development.

"C'mon Outta There---You Republican Rascals"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — Why people want to make a career of working for the U. S. government is sometimes something of a mystery.

True enough, for the pick-and-shovel workers there are long vacations, liberal sick leave with pay whether they're sick or not, and assured pensions on retirement.

There are promotions in grade for those who plod along, keeping their noses clean and their necks in. There are a few incentive rewards for employes who come up with suggestions for increasing efficiency or saving Uncle Sam money.

But it takes an act of Congress to get a general pay raise like the one this new Congress will probably pass. And for employes who work their way from bottom to top, a kick in the pants is the reward as often as not.

THE LIST OF RECENT cases proving these points is impressive:

B. T. Fitzpatrick, fired as general counsel of Housing and Home Finance Administration after 21 years to make way for a lame duck Republican congressman who had voted against government housing programs ten times.

Wolf Ladejinsky, father of land reform in Japan, was fired as U. S. agriculture attache in Tokyo. The Agriculture Department's security officer said the fact that Ladejinsky, who was born in Russia, has relatives still living in Russia is enough to withhold security clearance.

This ruling touched off a controversy, since the State Department had cleared him even though it had the same information on him.

The uproar reached the White House and Ladejinsky wound up in Harold Stassen's Foreign Operations Administration where he will help with the land reform program in South Viet Nam.

The case of atomic scientist Robert Oppenheimer is familiar to everyone. For merely having supported Dr. Oppenheimer's position, Dr. John Von Neumann now faces a stiff battle getting Senate confirmation as a member of the Atomic Energy Commission.

State Department career man John Paton Davies, cleared in nine separate loyalty investigations, is nevertheless let go because he is a controversial figure they don't know how else to handle.

THESE CASES PRESENT a mixture of the Eisenhower administration's security program with a straight Republican political housecleaning. It is sometimes difficult to tell where one leaves off and the other begins. But a clarification now seems to be in the making.

The purge of government workers may have run its course. It was somewhat naturally carried to excesses in the zeal for rooting every subversive influence out of government. But exaggerated claims on the number of firings for disloyalty have deflated the inquisition. The Senate's condemnation proceedings against Senator Joseph R. McCarthy completed the flattening-out. A few key court cases are putting the matter in better perspective.

Val R. Lorwin, University of Chicago professor and former State Department employe, won a six-year fight to clear his name of charges of communism. When the government could produce no evidence, perjury charges against him were dropped.

Now before the Supreme Court on appeal is the case of Dr. John P. Peters of Yale. Discharged from the Public Health Service on charges of disloyalty without being informed of or confronted by those who made the charges against him, he has sued for reinstatement.

LYLE L. ROBERTSON, discharged by Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation in a thinly disguised political move, has sued for reinstatement to protect his 26-year Civil Service record.

Democratic leaders in Congress have another angle in investigating administration firings of career government workers to make places for GOP patronage appointees.

The Eisenhower administration itself may take the lead in trying to straighten out this mess by revising both its security program regulations and its political job program.

The survival of the entire Civil Service system—based on a non-political, career employment for all government workers—is now at stake.

The Pentecost, celebrated by both the Christian and Jewish faiths, is the most ancient religious holiday in the world.

What to Do With Security Program Is Vital Matter at Capital

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 14 — Uniformity of treatment for every citizen who is the subject of examination by the government to determine whether, as a present or future employe, he may be a "security risk" is generally accepted here as desirable.

Yet it is becoming evident that the procedures are not uniform and that the rules are not standardized and that many pressure groups really don't want everybody treated alike.

Thus, when a government board finds that a man has been lying and that he misled the intelligence officers of the government, his supporters cry out that he is being punished just for telling what one of them described as a few "whimsical lies." Despite the fact that the employe under investigation was proved a liar to his own government, there is insistence that he be "cleared" because he is valuable or may be valuable in government work.

In another instance, an employe is cleared by one department but not by another, and the criterion in each case should have been the same. It is well known that one of the factors in determining a "security risk" is whether he has members of his family behind the Iron Curtain and thus could be subjected to blackmail here by Soviet agents. If that's the rule in one case, it is onlly fair to apply it in all cases or rescind it for everybody.

President Eisenhower concedes that the present security program can be improved and that it is under constant study. Senator Humphrey of Minnesota, Democrat, has suggested that a national commission — composed of legislators, officials of the executive branch and private citizens—be appointed to study the subject. Mr. Eisenhower at his press conference was asked about using a commission of private citizens, but he got the impression that what was meant by the question was a board such as President Truman appointed. The whole problem of handling security risks as to persons who have at one time or another had Communist sympathies or affiliations is difficult from an administrative viewpoint. There is no easy answer.

It is interesting, for example, now after several months delay, to read the army's report on the case of Major Peress, against whom Senator McCarthy directed his fire in an attempt to prevent an honorable discharge being given to a man about whom there was testimony that he was a Communist and who had failed to answer questions about it on his army papers. Now, when the facts come out about the case, few of the critics of the Wisconsin senator are willing to say he was right in his original quest. Provocation to anger arises under such circumstances, as an executive department fails to make prompt disclosure of the facts. Through all such cases however, the public is aroused to the importance of finding a solution, and congressional committees can give invaluable help through constant investigation of the defects in the security system.

Remember that this book, "making Woodrow Wilson President," was written in 1920 or earlier and published in 1924. McCombs at first thought House was a "puny intriguer" but he admitted, in his last days, that "when this conversion is analyzed in the light of subsequent events, much may be augured of what happened during Wilson's incumbency as president."

House was obsequious in Wilson's presence and "nobody seemed to know that he was becoming influential until after the inauguration."

This, I think, is one of the most important revelations in the political literature of our time:

"It was well known that House put Bryan, Burleson, McReynolds and Houston into the cabinet. He did this out of hand. House was responsible for most of the important appointments. His hand was evident in some of the great mistakes in Wilson's executive politics as well as his legislative suggestions. He created an air of mystery by being with the President and refusing to talk. He liked publicity. He liked to create, through his atmosphere of mystery, a conviction of greatness.

"In Feb. 1913, House appeared at my apartment and said, 'Now, if we can fix this thing up among us, McAdoo and you and I will control the United States for the next four years.' Later, nothing that House or McAdoo desired was turned down. I have been told by hundreds of truthful men that when they wanted anything done in Washington it was essential to get the approval of House."

And this House was already the author of a transparent novel which was actually a program for the abolition of the Constitution and the installation of a Nazi-Fascist dictator called the "administrator."

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Does history repeat? The following, neighbor, is from one of the great students of past civilization, Professor James H. Breasted, in describing how the Roman Empire came to fall:

"The financial burden of this vast organization, begun under Diocletian and completed under his successors, was enormous for this multitude of Government officials had all to be paid for and supported.

Mr. Hutton

"The amount of a citizen's taxes continued to increase until finally little that he possessed was free from taxation. The penalty of wealth seemed to be ruin, and there was no motive for success in business when prosperity meant ruinous over-taxation.

"He enacted laws forbidding a man to forsake his lands or occupation. The societies, guilds and unions into which the men of various occupations had long been organized were now gradually made obligatory (closed shop), so that no one could follow any calling or occupation without belonging to such a society. Even the citizen's wages and the price of the goods he bought and sold were, so far as possible, fixed for him by the State.

"Staggering under his crushing burden of taxes, in a state which was practically bankrupt, the citizen of every class had now become a mere cog in the vast machinery of government."

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Jan. 13 — Callers in the reservoir country Saturday included George Pearson, Lake Katrine farmer whose uncles Charles and George Pearson were in the store business along the now abandoned old state road in Olive Branch in days before the waterworks.

The Senior Girl Scouts met at the local Legion hall January 5 under the direction of Co-leaders Mrs. Robert Adait and Mrs. Walter Lang for the purpose of organizing a troop in this area. Judy Madsen and Doris Juliano were eelcted temporary chairman and scribe, respectively, of the new unit. The troop, composed of girls between the ages of 14 and 17, will meet in the Legion rooms on the first and third Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p. m. Girls interested in joining, and also their parents, are invited to attend the next meeting, January 19, or to contact the co-leaders.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Feth of the High Falls sector of Marbletown were callers in the village center. The couple, who contemplate moving to New Paltz next spring, were accompanied here by Mrs. Feth's sister Rosalie Ghear, also of High Falls.

Report has it that the Thord Fredenholms have sold their remodeled bungalow on the reservoir road and Mrs. Fredenholm's brother Rudolph Luralek has contracted for the sale of the smaller of his two new dwellings in the Reformed Church neighborhood of Shokan.

Mrs. William J. Loos of Inwood, L. I., has announced the engagement of her eldest daughter Josephine to Thomas McKinley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McKinley of 20 Lawrence Parkway, Lawrence, L. I. Mrs. Loos has a summer place along the Ridge road and members of the McKinley family have visited Shokan upon a number of occasions.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Olive Legion Post met January 3 with President Alice Stevens in the chair. Betsy VonderOsten, rehabilitation chairman, reported the sum of $35 sent to the Albany Veterans Hospital for gifts. Chairman M. Trowbridge of community service mentioned the successful Christmas party sponsored by the post and auxiliary, the 74 hours of community work done and the securing of a hospital bed for the town of Olive Nursing Committee from the county Legion auxiliary. A donation to the hospital gift shop fund was given recognition and one from the auxiliary to the Onteora PTA was approved by the members.

Herb Scheringen of the Ashokan Reservoir force has thought up a new one for his ingeniously planned and constructed group of old lamps and wheels at his place on the Krumville road. Herb's latest idea features a small wagon wheel and one of the equally scarce old coach lamps. Motorists in South Olive will probably slow down still more when this unique arrangement gets settled on its concrete bed.

The trucking of lumber over the Onteora Trail appears to be much lighter since late December. Loads of big oak logs roll towards the mountain sawmills several times a day, however, while immense cargoes of cement building blocks, westward bound, seem to be on the increase. Road material shipments are noticeably fewer but the usual trucking of bluestone curbing continues apace. Fuel oil and gasoline trucks vie with the inevitable big milk tankers in numbers; though not for speed.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jackson during the holidays exchanged Christmas greetings by telephone with their youngest son, George, who is with the army at San Francisco.

Ina Holbrook of New York and sister Alice Quick, Kingston, were recent social callers in Ashokan.

To Discontinue Train

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—The state Public Service Commission announced today the late Friday night train on the Putnam Division of the New York Central Railroad will be discontinued March 5 upon a commission finding that the company has incurred a loss of about $8 per passenger carried. The train leaves Sedgwick avenue at 10:22 p. m. and arrives at Carmel at 12:09 a. m. The Sedgewick avenue station is a connecting point and the southern end of the Putnam Division.

Oil Stove Explosion Causes Tillson Fire

Tillson, Jan. 13—A fire in the second floor apartment of the Zeller property on the corner opposite Coon's was discovered early Tuesday afternoon. The Tillson Volunteer Fire Company responded and chief engineer Russell Douglass called for area equipment to stand by in case the fire got out of control. Rosendale and Binnewater sent equipment but it was not needed.

The fire was reported to have occurred when an oil stove in the second floor apartment did not work properly, causing an explosion. A hole was burned through the floor, and the resulting smoke caused some damage. Firemen broke through the outside partition to check for fire between the walls, but confined it to the floor, keeping it from spreading between the floors.

Douglass stated that this was the first house fire in Tillson in over a year but that the men worked carefully and efficiently and caused as little damage as possible in extinguishing the fire.

It was also reported that gas from the tank of the new company tanker which is parked outside the firehall had been stolen on two occasions. Lack of gas in the truck could become a serious handicap in the event of a bad fire, the chief pointed out.

Tillson, Jan. 13—The monthly meeting of the Tillson School Association will be held this evening at the T[illegible] School at 8 o'clock. Guest speaker will be Mrs. Marian Gregory, New Paltz, who will discuss the prereading program in kindergarten and the reading program from the first through the eighth grade.

Mrs. Gregory, a graduate of New Paltz State Teachers College and a former teacher in Westchester county and Clintondale, is at present a reading specialist in the Kingston school system. All members, as well as other interested persons, are asked to attend the meeting.

Oil Stove Explosion Causes Tillson Fire

Tillson, Jan. 13—A fire in the second floor apartment of the Zeller property on the corner opposite Coon's was discovered early Tuesday afternoon. The Tillson Volunteer Fire Company responded and chief engineer Russell Douglass called for area equipment to stand by in case the fire got out of control. Rosendale and Binnewater sent equipment but it was not needed.

The fire was reported to have occurred when an oil stove in the second floor apartment did not work properly, causing an explosion. A hole was burned through the floor, and the resulting smoke caused some damage. Firemen broke through the outside partition to check for fire between the walls, but confined it to the floor, keeping it from spreading between the floors.

Douglass stated that this was the first house fire in Tillson in over a year but that the men worked carefully and efficiently and caused as little damage as possible in extinguishing the fire.

It was also reported that gas from the tank of the new company tanker which is parked outside the firehall had been stolen on two occasions. Lack of gas in the truck could become a serious handicap in the event of a bad fire, the chief pointed out.

Tillson, Jan. 13—The monthly meeting of the Tillson School Association will be held this evening at the T[illegible] School at 8 o'clock. Guest speaker will be Mrs. Marian Gregory, New Paltz, who will discuss the pre-reading program in kindergarten and the reading program from the first through the eighth grade.

Mrs. Gregory, a graduate of New Paltz State Teachers College and a former teacher in Westchester county and Clintondale, is at present a reading specialist in the Kingston school system. All members, as well as other interested persons, are asked to attend the meeting.

DAVID L. ROWLANDS has been appointed technical assistant in the personal department at the local IBM plant.

Rowlands is a graduate of Bucknell University where he received his BS degree in mechanical engineering and his MS degree in mathematics. He has completed and taught several courses in the IBM Schools, and has taught mechanical engineering in the evening school of the New York State Technical Institute at Binghamton.

He joined IBM at Endicott in September 1952 as a member of the general manufacturing training program there. On completion of this training in June 1953, he joined the methods engineering division at Endicott, and in April 1954 became a member of the manufacturing engineering division where he has continued until his recent appointment.

He is a veteran of service in the army, and was stationed in Japan.

PAUL G. RICHARDS, Osborn Hill Road, Fishkill, has been appointed project manager of traffic, shipping, receiving, materials handling and stores at the local IBM Plant.

A native of Madison, Wis., he was graduated from high school there, and received his BS degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Utah. He also attended the Montana School of Mines, and has studied and taught several courses in the IBM Schools.

Richards joined IBM, at the Poughkeepsie plant, in August 1951 as a technical engineer in the industrial engineering department. In May 1952 he was promoted to a managerial level and since that time has held the positions of manager of materials handling section of industrial engineering and manager of manufacturing planning.

He is a veteran of three years service in the navy, and is currently executive officer of the U. S. Naval Reserve Surface Division at Poughkeepsie.

He is a member of the IBM Country Club, IBM Study Club, Sigma Chi fraternity, and Theta Tau fraternity.

The surface of Lakes Huron and Michigan is 21 to 25 feet lower than that of Lake Superior.

Lays Flat Eggs

The murre, a bird of the north Atlantic and north Pacific, lays a flat egg. It has no nest and lays its egg on the bare stone of the rocky cliffs. The egg is slightly flattened and pointed at the end so that it rolls in a small circle when it is disturbed, making it less likely to fall off the narrow ledges.

Statistics indicate there are more accidents, suicides and crimes when barometric pressure is low.

Movie Moguls Claim Formula To Regain Clients

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—The movie industry is confident it has found the formula for dragging its former steady customers out of their living room easy chairs in front of television back into the theatre.

That formula is compounded of something new and something old.

The something old is that ancient theatrical bromide: The play's the thing! Everyone agrees that without a good story, you're dead. Nothing else really matters.

THE BIG STUDIOS now are concentrating on top-drawer production of films with stature. That means fewer pictures but bigger budgets, multiple star casts and important story properties when they can be found. The hunt for good story material is one of the industry's most nerve-wracking projects.

Ironically, the rival that Hollywood feared a few years ago has become an ally. Big movie producers now are creating subsidiary TV companies to turn out dramatic shorts on film for the new medium.

A survey by the council of motion picture organizations shows a reversal, beginning in the second quarter of 1954, of an eight-year slump in movie attendance. Average weekly admissions had dropped from a high of 82 million in 1946 to 46 million in 1953. The survey showed average weekly attendance in July back to 72½ million.

The motion picture almanac estimates the 1954 boxoffice gross at $1,317,552,000, up from the all time low $1,134,000,000 of 1952.

And the foreign market is booming again, accounting for 45 per cent of the industry's profits.

Second and still going strong is Columbia's "Caine Mutiny" which grossed over 8½ million. Six of the top 10 pictures of 1954 are in the new curved screen techinques.

It was a big year for re-issues too. The nearest thing to a perpetual gold mine in the entertainment field is "Gone With the Wind," which grossed 1½ million dollars on its fifth time round since 1939.

THE "GWTW" TOTAL has soared to 33½ million dollars and this classic story of the Civil War period is one of the pictures most in demand abroad.

There someday may be a challenger to "GWTW" as an all time bonanza attraction but if so it isn't yet on the horizon.

Twentieth Century-Fox's "The Robe" carried off top honors in 1953 and now is comfortably settled in second place but far back of "GWTW." "The Robe" has chalked up 16 million dollars so far, with several thousand theatres still to play in this country and Canada. Appears headed for about 19 million.

Slush Halts Ben, First in 5 Years

London, Jan. 14 (AP)—Big Ben, the famous clock that booms over Britain's Houses of Parliament, stopped for more than five hours this morning. It was the first time in five years that the "Voice of London" had been stilled.

Big Ben quit ticking at 3:24 a. m. and didn't start again until 8:52.

In the interim the British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC), which normally starts its day with the clock's majestic peal, substituted pips from the Greenwich observatory.

Big Ben last failed in August, 1949. That time a flock of starlings sat on the clock's 14-foot minute hand and caused the timepiece to lose 4½ minutes.

Haymes' Step-pa 4 Years Younger

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—The mother of crooner Dick Haymes has been married for 11 years to a singer who is four years younger than 36-year-old Dick.

Mrs. Fred Haymes-Waters disclosed yesterday that she married Waters, a 6 foot 3 baritone, in 1943.

A voice teacher, she said Waters enrolled in a course in 1941, two years after she had been widowed.

"He proposed to me shortly after he become my pupil," Mrs. Haymes-Waters said. She added that they were married two years later when she "grew to love him."

She said her son Dick, married to actress Rita Hayworth, was pleased by the marriage and told her:

"You were never meant to live with somebody old".

Movie Moguls Claim Formula To Regain Clients

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—The movie industry is confident it has found the formula for dragging its former steady customers out of their living room easy chairs in front of television back into the theatre.

That formula is compounded of something new and something old.

The something old is that ancient theatrical bromide: The play's the thing! Everyone agrees that without a good story, you're dead. Nothing else really matters.

THE BIG STUDIOS now are concentrating on top-drawer production of films with stature. That means fewer pictures but bigger budgets, multiple star casts and important story properties when they can be found. The hunt for good story material is one of the industry's most nerve-wracking projects.

Ironically, the rival that Hollywood feared a few years ago has become an ally. Big movie producers now are creating subsidiary TV companies to turn out dramatic shorts on film for the new medium.

A survey by the council of motion picture organizations shows a reversal, beginning in the second quarter of 1954, of an eight-year slump in movie attendance. Average weekly admissions had dropped from a high of 82 million in 1946 to 46 million in 1953. The survey showed average weekly attendance in July back to 72½ million.

The motion picture almanac estimates the 1954 boxoffice gross at $1,317,552,000, up from the all time low $1,134,000,000 of 1952.

And the foreign market is booming again, accounting for 45 per cent of the industry's profits.

Second and still going strong is Columbia's "Caine Mutiny" which grossed over 8½ million. Six of the top 10 pictures of 1954 are in the new curved screen techinques.

It was a big year for re-issues too. The nearest thing to a perpetual gold mine in the entertainment field is "Gone With the Wind," which grossed 1½ million dollars on its fifth time round since 1939.

THE "GWTW" TOTAL has soared to 33½ million dollars and this classic story of the Civil War period is one of the pictures most in demand abroad.

There someday may be a challenger to "GWTW" as an all time bonanza attraction but if so it isn't yet on the horizon.

Twentieth Century-Fox's "The Robe" carried off top honors in 1953 and now is comfortably settled in second place but far back of "GWTW." "The Robe" has chalked up 16 million dollars so far, with several thousand theatres still to play in this country and Canada. Appears headed for about 19 million.

Slush Halts Ben, First in 5 Years

London, Jan. 14 (AP)—Big Ben, the famous clock that booms over Britain's Houses of Parliament, stopped for more than five hours this morning. It was the first time in five years that the "Voice of London" had been stilled.

Big Ben quit ticking at 3:24 a. m. and didn't start again until 8:52.

In the interim the British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC), which normally starts its day with the clock's majestic peal, substituted pips from the Greenwich observatory.

Big Ben last failed in August, 1949. That time a flock of starlings sat on the clock's 14-foot minute hand and caused the timepiece to lose 4½ minutes.

Haymes' Step-pa 4 Years Younger

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—The mother of crooner Dick Haymes has been married for 11 years to a singer who is four years younger than 36-year-old Dick.

Mrs. Fred Haymes-Waters disclosed yesterday that she married Waters, a 6 foot 3 baritone, in 1943.

A voice teacher, she said Waters enrolled in a course in 1941, two years after she had been widowed.

"He proposed to me shortly after he become my pupil," Mrs. Haymes-Waters said. She added that they were married two years later when she "grew to love him."

She said her son Dick, married to actress Rita Hayworth, was pleased by the marriage and told her:

"You were never meant to live with somebody old".

Pack Trips in Sierras Feature of Program Of Senior Girl Scouts in California

"The Senior Scout program is really exciting," said Jane Doyle, Senior Scout of San Lorenzo, Cal., telling of her experiences before the members of the newly-organized Ulster County Senior Girl Scout Planning Board, at their second meeting held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, on Saturday at 2 p. m.

Jane is at present a house guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Heidgerd, of New Paltz, both members of the Ulster County Girl Scout Council, pending the moving of her family to Westchester county where her father will resume with the General Foods Company following his transfer from San Lorenzo, Cal.

TALKING ON the Senior Scout program which has been soundly established in the San Francisco area, Jane remarked, "Camping is my first interest!"

She described the adventurous 'pack trips' on horseback taken by the Senior Girl Scouts on the lofty Sierras from California to Mexico. Although camping of many types is well founded in the west, Jane stressed, "There is not much in the way of water sports. I missed that!"

On our camping expeditions, Jane said, "We live in units. We have lots of fun and really learn to handle the kids. We get our BS in psychology!"

She related her impressions of a Senior Scout Conference held at Monterey, Cal., on a Halloween weekend.

"The real inspiration, however," she added, "was the Scout's Own. Against a scenic background, a pantomime was portrayed featuring Miss Liberty, augmented by a choral-speaking choir, the pantomimists enacted the theme of democracy effectively. We were so impressed, we cried," Jane concluded.

MISS CAROLYN STARK, president of the Ulster County Senior Girl Scout Planning Board. Miss Stark pointed out that although the initial meetings had been open to every Senior Girl Scout within the county, future meetings would be confined to elected board officers and Senior Troop representatives according to previous group decision, to enable the group to work more effectively in the interests of all Senior Girl Scouts.

The group elected Miss Carol Kinkade, of Troop 71, St. Mary's Church and Miss Lorraine Etienne, of Troop 7, St. John's Church, Kingston, to represent each respective troop on the County Planning Board.

In the twelve outlying communities within the Ulster County Council area jurisdiction, Senior girls will contact the Girl Scout Office in Kingston during the reorganizational months of January and February. During the transition, adult leaders will be encouraged to promote and expand activities for Senior Scouts recommended by the County Senior Girl Scout Planning Board and the National Organization.

IN KINGSTON, where there is a concentration of Senior Girl Scouts, plans are underway for the actual formation of a Senior Girl Scout troop within the Kingston High School. All former Girl Scouts and interested girls of Senior Scout age (14-17 years) are cordially invited to participate in the formation of the new Kingston High School All-Senior Girl Scout troop and urged to place membership requests at the local Girl Scout Office immediately. Further information may be obtained by contacting the Scout Office, Mrs. Donovan Buehring, president of the Ulster Girl Scout Council, or Mrs. David Ennis, chairman of the Council Program Committee.

To create interest in the project, attractive Senior Scout activity posters will be displayed at the High School during the latter part of January. Miss Gail Peipper, of troop 71, St. Mary's Church, Miss Judy Scism, of troop 73, Old Dutch Church, and Miss Kinkade were appointed co-chairmen of an arts committee to direct the designing and posting of the placards. They will be assisted by the Senior girls of St. Mary's Church and the Old Dutch Church.

Miss Carolyn Rylance and Miss Etienne, of troop 7, St. John's Church, were also appointed co-chairmen of the exhibits to be arranged in the high school corridor. All Senior girls of St. John's Church will assist in the project.

Elaborate plans were formulated for an initiatory program at the organizational meeting open to all Senior age girls, tentatively scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 3, in the Living Center at the Vocational Building, at 3:30 p. m. Hostesses appointed by Miss Stark include; Miss Mary Ann Richards and Miss Mary McDermott, of troop 71 and Miss Carolle Leware, of troop 7.

DISCUSSION during the afternoon centered around events for the Senior Scouts of the county, foremost among them will be the informal dance to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, February 22. In keeping with the traditional exchanging of the ivy and the snowdrop upon this day, designated as International Thinking Day in Scouting, the group selected the name, "Ivy Ball" for their dance.

Other events on the calendar will include a winter camping expedition sharing cooperative camping experiences with the Senior Girl Scouts of Westchester county at Pleasantville; an early spring return exchange camping weekend at Camp Wendy, Wallkill, with Ulster county Senior Scouts as hostesses; the participation of a Senior Patrol unit in the Appalachian Trail project.

THE NATIONAL goal is to have 2,021 miles covered by hiking Girl Scouts between May 25 and August 25. Approximately 150 miles of the trail has been designated as the section to be traversed by the Region 11 Girl Scouts, of which Ulster county is an integral part. Local Senior Scouts have selected the second week in July as the time for their trek upon the Appalachian Trail.

Women's Club Marks 100th Anniversary Of National YWCA

The 100th birthday of the National YWCA was celebrated Thursday, by the Women's Club with an anniversary tea at their regular monthly meeting.

A LARGE BIRTHDAY cake with "100th Anniversary" in pink icing centered the table and was cut by Mrs. Fred Port, president of the local association. Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, president of the club, poured. The tea table was decorated with bowls of pink geraniums and snapdragons and white candles. The tea committee was composed of Mrs. Samuel Peyer, chairman, Mrs. Fred Schwenk, Mrs. Edward Hillis and Mrs. Adam Theil.

Mrs. Henry Millonig presented the afternoon's program of colored slides of the following: Kingston Tercentennial Celebration, Washington, D. C., Williamsburg, Shenandoah Valley, Cherokee Reservation, New Orleans, Mt. Rushmore, Yellowstone National Park, Grand Canyon, San Francisco, and White Face Mountain in New York state.

MRS. TERWILLIGER welcomed two new members Mrs. Henry Sniffen and Mrs. J. W. Davis.

The annual dinner of the local association will be held at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday, Jan. 26.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM CLANCY celebrate at the reception following their wedding Sunday in Phoenicia, by cutting the wedding cake. The bride is the former Jane Crosby of Phoenicia. (Pennington photo).

Miss Jane Crosby, William D. Clancy Wed in Phoenicia

Miss Jane Frances Crosby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Crosby, Sr., of Phoenicia, became the bride of William David Clancy, of New York and Lanesville, son of William Clancy of New York and the late Mrs. Clancy, in a double ring ceremony held Saturday, Jan. 8 at 10:30 a. m. in St. Francis de Sales Church in Phoenicia. The Rev. Father Egan officiated.

John Breithaupt of Phoenicia was soloist in the selections Mother Beloved, Ave Maria and Panis Angelicus. Mrs. N. Bennett accompanied him on the organ. The church was decorated in white palms and snapdragons.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of candlelight embroidered satin brocade, fashioned with a jewel neckline and long sleeves and bouffant skirt terminating in a chapel train. A matching cap secured an illusion veil. Both gown and headpiece were designed by Mrs. John W. Crosby, Jr., sister-in-law of the bride. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gardenias and ivy.

Mrs. Ralph H. Kuhnel of Albany, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a turquoise antique taffeta gown in princess style with bouffant cocktail length skirt, matching shoes and a gold hair band. Her cascade bouquet was of red poinsettias.

The other attendants were Miss Enis Forlini of Phoenicia, Miss Myra Bared of Woodstock, and Miss Nancy Abrams of New York. Their gowns were identical to that worn by the matron of honor.

Ralph H. Kuhnel, brother-in-law of the bride, served as best man. The ushers were William J. Crosby, brother of the bride, John Fanell, Phoenicia, and Maurice Valient of Lake Katrine State Police Barracks.

The bride, a graduate of Academy of St. Ursula was associated in business with her father in Phoenicia.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Tannersville High School, is at present in the naval submarine service and is stationed at New London, Conn. where the couple will live.

French Compositions Featured on Program Of Musical Society

The program included:

L'Enfance du Christ, by Berlioz, recording.

En Bateau from Petite Suite, Debussy, by Miss Alice Dunbar, flutist, and Miss Nan Goldrick and Mrs. Rylance, pianists.

Cortege, from Petite Suite, duet, Miss Goldrick and Mrs. Rylance.

Mrs. Deweese DeWitt, in her notes on French music of the past century, said that music can be all things to all men because it deals with intangible factors and is an interpretation of life. French music portrays color and light because France is a country of color and light.

Mrs. Forst gave a short sketch of the life of each composer whose works appeared on the program.

Hostesses for the social hour following the meeting were Mrs. Willard Burke and Miss Gloria Massa.

Personal Notes

Harry G. Edinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Edinger of 21 Reynolds street, was among the 137 Yale University students from New York state who have been awarded high scholastic honors for the 1953-54 academic year. He prepared for Yale at Kingston High School.

Fleurette Reon, a sophomore at Syracuse University, has been chosen to membership in Traditions Commission, an SU upperclass activities honorary. Miss Reon, daughter of Mrs. Frances Reon of 261 East Strand, this city, is registered in the College of Liberal Arts at Syracuse, and is planning to major in journalism. She has been active on The Daily Orange, school newspaper; the Onondagan, school yearbook; women's student government; and Boar's Head, student dramatic group. She was chosen along with 17 other sophomores in recognition of her outstanding activities on the Goon Squad, an under-class auxiliary to Traditions. Traditions Commission's major function on the Syracuse University campus is to assist in administration of freshman orientation week at the beginning of each semester.

"The Senior Scout program is really exciting," said Jane Doyle, Senior Scout of San Lorenzo, Cal., telling of her experiences before the members of the newly-organized Ulster County Senior Girl Scout Planning Board, at their second meeting held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, on Saturday at 2 p. m.

Jane is at present a house guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Heidgerd, of New Paltz, both members of the Ulster County Girl Scout Council, pending the moving of her family to Westchester county where her father will resume with the General Foods Company following his transfer from San Lorenzo, Cal.

TALKING ON the Senior Scout program which has been soundly established in the San Francisco area, Jane remarked, "Camping is my first interest!"

She described the adventurous 'pack trips' on horseback taken by the Senior Girl Scouts on the lofty Sierras from California to Mexico. Although camping of many types is well founded in the west, Jane stressed, "There is not much in the way of water sports. I missed that!"

On our camping expeditions, Jane said, "We live in units. We have lots of fun and really learn to handle the kids. We get our BS in psychology!"

She related her impressions of a Senior Scout Conference held at Monterey, Cal., on a Halloween weekend.

"The real inspiration, however," she added, "was the Scout's Own. Against a scenic background, a pantomime was portrayed featuring Miss Liberty, augmented by a choral-speaking choir, the pantomimists enacted the theme of democracy effectively. We were so impressed, we cried," Jane concluded.

MISS CAROLYN STARK, president of the Ulster County Senior Girl Scout Planning Board. Miss Stark pointed out that although the initial meetings had been open to every Senior Girl Scout within the county, future meetings would be confined to elected board officers and Senior Troop representatives according to previous group decision, to enable the group to work more effectively in the interests of all Senior Girl Scouts.

The group elected Miss Carol Kinkade, of Troop 71, St. Mary's Church and Miss Lorraine Etienne, of Troop 7, St. John's Church, Kingston, to represent each respective troop on the County Planning Board.

In the twelve outlying communities within the Ulster County Council area jurisdiction, Senior girls will contact the Girl Scout Office in Kingston during the reorganizational months of January and February. During the transition, adult leaders will be encouraged to promote and expand activities for Senior Scouts recommended by the County Senior Girl Scout Planning Board and the National Organization.

IN KINGSTON, where there is a concentration of Senior Girl Scouts, plans are underway for the actual formation of a Senior Girl Scout troop within the Kingston High School. All former Girl Scouts and interested girls of Senior Scout age (14-17 years) are cordially invited to participate in the formation of the new Kingston High School All-Senior Girl Scout troop and urged to place membership requests at the local Girl Scout Office immediately. Further information may be obtained by contacting the Scout Office, Mrs. Donovan Buehring, president of the Ulster Girl Scout Council, or Mrs. David Ennis, chairman of the Council Program Committee.

To create interest in the project, attractive Senior Scout activity posters will be displayed at the High School during the latter part of January. Miss Gail Peipper, of troop 71, St. Mary's Church, Miss Judy Scism, of troop 73, Old Dutch Church, and Miss Kinkade were appointed co-chairmen of an arts committee to direct the designing and posting of the placards. They will be assisted by the Senior girls of St. Mary's Church and the Old Dutch Church.

Miss Carolyn Rylance and Miss Etienne, of troop 7, St. John's Church, were also appointed co-chairmen of the exhibits to be arranged in the high school corridor. All Senior girls of St. John's Church will assist in the project.

Elaborate plans were formulated for an initiatory program at the organizational meeting open to all Senior age girls, tentatively scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 3, in the Living Center at the Vocational Building, at 3:30 p. m. Hostesses appointed by Miss Stark include; Miss Mary Ann Richards and Miss Mary McDermott, of troop 71 and Miss Carolle Leware, of troop 7.

DISCUSSION during the afternoon centered around events for the Senior Scouts of the county, foremost among them will be the informal dance to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, February 22. In keeping with the traditional exchanging of the ivy and the snowdrop upon this day, designated as International Thinking Day in Scouting, the group selected the name, "Ivy Ball" for their dance.

Other events on the calendar will include a winter camping expedition sharing cooperative camping experiences with the Senior Girl Scouts of Westchester county at Pleasantville; an early spring return exchange camping weekend at Camp Wendy, Wallkill, with Ulster county Senior Scouts as hostesses; the participation of a Senior Patrol unit in the Appalachian Trail project.

THE NATIONAL goal is to have 2,021 miles covered by hiking Girl Scouts between May 25 and August 25. Approximately 150 miles of the trail has been designated as the section to be traversed by the Region 11 Girl Scouts, of which Ulster county is an integral part. Local Senior Scouts have selected the second week in July as the time for their trek upon the Appalachian Trail.

YWCA 100th ANNIVERSARY — Mrs. Fred Port, president of the local YWCA, admires the cake proclaiming the 100th anniversary of the National YWCA at the meeting Thursday afternoon of the Women's Club. Women's Club Marks 100th Anniversary Of National YWCA

The 100th birthday of the National YWCA was celebrated Thursday, by the Women's Club with an anniversary tea at their regular monthly meeting.

A LARGE BIRTHDAY cake with "100th Anniversary" in pink icing centered the table and was cut by Mrs. Fred Port, president of the local association. Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, president of the club, poured. The tea table was decorated with bowls of pink geraniums and snapdragons and white candles. The tea committee was composed of Mrs. Samuel Peyer, chairman, Mrs. Fred Schwenk, Mrs. Edward Hillis and Mrs. Adam Theil.

Mrs. Henry Millonig presented the afternoon's program of colored slides of the following: Kingston Tercentennial Celebration, Washington, D. C., Williamsburg, Shenandoah Valley, Cherokee Reservation, New Orleans, Mt. Rushmore, Yellowstone National Park, Grand Canyon, San Francisco, and White Face Mountain in New York state.

MRS. TERWILLIGER welcomed two new members Mrs. Henry Sniffen and Mrs. J. W. Davis.

The annual dinner of the local association will be held at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday, Jan. 26.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM CLANCY celebrate at the reception following their wedding Sunday in Phoenicia, by cutting the wedding cake. The bride is the former Jane Crosby of Phoenicia. (Pennington photo).

Miss Jane Frances Crosby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Crosby, Sr., of Phoenicia, became the bride of William David Clancy, of New York and Lanesville, son of William Clancy of New York and the late Mrs. Clancy, in a double ring ceremony held Saturday, Jan. 8 at 10:30 a. m. in St. Francis de Sales Church in Phoenicia. The Rev. Father Egan officiated.

John Breithaupt of Phoenicia was soloist in the selections Mother Beloved, Ave Maria and Panis Angelicus. Mrs. N. Bennett accompanied him on the organ. The church was decorated in white palms and snapdragons.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of candlelight embroidered satin brocade, fashioned with a jewel neckline and long sleeves and bouffant skirt terminating in a chapel train. A matching cap secured an illusion veil. Both gown and headpiece were designed by Mrs. John W. Crosby, Jr., sister-in-law of the bride. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gardenias and ivy.

Mrs. Ralph H. Kuhnel of Albany, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a turquoise antique taffeta gown in princess style with bouffant cocktail length skirt, matching shoes and a gold hair band. Her cascade bouquet was of red poinsettias.

The other attendants were Miss Enis Forlini of Phoenicia, Miss Myra Bared of Woodstock, and Miss Nancy Abrams of New York. Their gowns were identical to that worn by the matron of honor.

Ralph H. Kuhnel, brother-in-law of the bride, served as best man. The ushers were William J. Crosby, brother of the bride, John Fanell, Phoenicia, and Maurice Valient of Lake Katrine State Police Barracks.

The bride, a graduate of Academy of St. Ursula was associated in business with her father in Phoenicia.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Tannersville High School, is at present in the naval submarine service and is stationed at New London, Conn. where the couple will live.

French Compositions Featured on Program Of Musical Society

The program included:

L'Enfance du Christ, by Berlioz, recording.

Cortege, from Petite Suite, duet, Miss Goldrick and Mrs. Rylance.

Mrs. Deweese DeWitt, in her notes on French music of the past century, said that music can be all things to all men because it deals with intangible factors and is an interpretation of life. French music portrays color and light because France is a country of color and light.

Mrs. Forst gave a short sketch of the life of each composer whose works appeared on the program.

Hostesses for the social hour following the meeting were Mrs. Willard Burke and Miss Gloria Massa.

Personal Notes

Harry G. Edinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Edinger of 21 Reynolds street, was among the 137 Yale University students from New York state who have been awarded high scholastic honors for the 1953-54 academic year. He prepared for Yale at Kingston High School.

Fleurette Reon, a sophomore at Syracuse University, has been chosen to membership in Traditions Commission, an SU upperclass activities honorary. Miss Reon, daughter of Mrs. Frances Reon of 261 East Strand, this city, is registered in the College of Liberal Arts at Syracuse, and is planning to major in journalism. She has been active on The Daily Orange, school newspaper; the Onondagan, school yearbook; women's student government; and Boar's Head, student dramatic group. She was chosen along with 17 other sophomores in recognition of her outstanding activities on the Goon Squad, an under-class auxiliary to Traditions. Traditions Commission's major function on the Syracuse University campus is to assist in administration of freshman orientation week at the beginning of each semester.

Good Taste Today

By EMILY POST

(Author of Etiquette, Children Are People, etc.)

A SENSITIVE WIFE

A women writes me as follows: "I would like to know if you think I am justified in feeling hurt over the following situation: Whenever a family dinner comes up, my mother-in-law always calls my husband and extends the invitation to him. I am always included in the invitation of course, but she has never once called and invited me directly. I always though the wife was the one to be consulted about such matters. My husband says I am petty. Am I?"

Under most circumstances, the invitation is given to the wife, but it is not unheard of to give it to the husband on occasion. In other words, whoever answers the telephone would be given the message. Of course, if you answered the telephone and she asked to speak to your husband in order to give him the invitation then I think she is very rude to you. Even so, if I were you I would try to ignore it and just consider it a strange idiosyncrasy of hers.

Neglected Sisters

Dear Mrs. Post: My brother is to be married soon. Our family consists of mother, father, three unmarried sisters living at home and two married brothers. Each of my married brothers was sent separate invitations to the wedding and one came addressed to our house to Mr. and Mrs. but nothing at all came for the sisters living at home. Shouldn't they have received an invitation too?

Answer: I agree that the sisters should have received a separate invitation, or at least have been included on their parents' invitation.

Saying Grace

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a widow and whenever I have guests in to dinner I usually ask one of the men present to say grace. I have always felt that the blessing should be asked by a man when one is present. Is this right, or should I ask the blessing at my own table?

Answer: Unless a clergyman is present, you should ask the blessing at your own table.

Four Types Licenses Will Expire Monday

The Bureau of Motor Vehicles said registration of commercial vehicles—trucks and tractors—suburbans and trailers are affected. So-called farm registrations also expire.

For these classes of vehicles, January 15 is the new expiration date—extended two days this year because the 15th is a Saturday.

The new insurance form must accompany each 1955 application. Required for an insurance survey under a 1954 amendment, the form asks two questions: Do you have liability insurance, and, if so, what's the name of your insurance company.

Passenger car plates are still valid until midnight, January 31.

Move Under Way to Preserve Boston's Famed Beacon Hill

Washington, Jan. 14 — Boston's Beacon Hill is not as high as it used to be, and the beacon has been gone for many years.

But it endures as the loftiest point in old Boston and as a symbol of an aristocratic way of life. Rich in history, literary tradition and legend, Beacon Hill and the gilt-domed State House on its summit are regarded as the heart of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The Beacon Hill section looks very much as it did in the early 19th century, the National Geographic Society says. Some streets remain cobbled. Rows of rosebrick houses — hallmarked with lavender windowpanes, sedate white doorways and shining brass—form a quiet oasis in a modern metropolis.

TO PRESERVE the famous quarter, homeowners have asked the Massachusetts Legislature to create a Historic Beacon Hill District of about 22 acres. New construction, repairs and alterations would be regulated.

The first European settler on the site of Boston, the Shawmut Peninsula betweeen Charles River and South Bay, was William Blackstone, an English clergyman. He built a home somewhere on Beacon Hill soon after the area was visited by Captain Miles Standard and an exploratory party from Plymouth Colony in 1621.

Eight years later, the Massachusetts Bay Company founded Charlestown across the river from Blackstone's solitary domain. A band of new colonists led by John Winthrop arrived from England in June, 1630. They settled at Charlestown but found drinking water scarce.

BLACKSTONE LEARNED of the newcomers' plight and told them of an excellent spring on the peninsula. At his invitation, the colonists moved lock, stock and barrel, bringing even the frame of Winhtrop's house. According to early Charlestown records, the people "began to build their houses against winter, and this place was called Boston"—after the town in England.

About four years later, the colonists erected on the highest hill a pole topped with an iron skillet filled with pitch and wood. This flare was lighted to warn of any danger and gave the hill its name. The American architect Charles Bulfinch designed a sturdier beacon of stone and brick in 1790.

WHEN BEACON HILL'S summit was leveled off between 1811 and 1823 to fill in a mill pond for building space, the Bulfinch Beacon was destroyed. A memorial was later erected near the State House.

The Bulfinch-designed State House was begun in 1795 on what was the cow pasture of the estate of John Hancock, first signer of the Declaration of Independence and first federal governor of Massachusetts. Beacon Hill flowered after the turn of the century. Most of itts elegant homes were built in 40 years, resulting in an uncommon architectural unity. Many were designed by Bulfinch.

The Hill became the center of Boston's literary culture. Among its residents were Oliver Wendell Holmes, Louisa May Alcott, William Dean Howells, Thomas Bailey Aldrich, Julia Ward Howe and Francis Parkman. The Swedish singer Jenny Lind was married in a house in Louisburg Square.

Old traditions linger on. From Blackstone the first Bostonians purchased land for use as a cow pasture and military training field. The tract is Boston Common. Residents of fashionable Beacon Hill still have the right to lead a cow down Beacon street to the Common.

Allotment Is Made

Albany, Jan. 14 (AP)—The state has alloted $3,068,635 to the 57 counties outside of New York city as their share of motor fuel taxes collected by the state for the three months ended Dec. 31. State Comptroller Arthur Levitt said yesterday that $2,967,198 had been distributed for the corresponding period in 1953. The money is deposited in county road funds under a law that provides for distribution of 10 per cent of such tax revenue. It is alloted on the basis of county and town highway mileage.

What's happened to the old home ties?

They aren't what they used to be.

Today twenty million women in the U. S. work in an office or an industry.

One out of every three women is gainfully employed!

Almost ten million married women; more than five million single girls; and over four million widowed, divorced, and separated women work.

Twenty million women is a big market in anybody's sales plans.

Yet these twenty million women can't hear or see a soap opera from morning to night!

But they can be reached through their daily newspaper. And are reached—because 95% of the women in America read a daily newspaper some time during the day. When they will, where they will.

As for advertising—a survey taken at the time of New York's newspaper strike disclosed that the item women missed most in the newspaper was the advertising.

So if you want to tell these women about your product, tell them, and sell them, and keep them sold . . . in the medium you know they'll read—The Daily Newspaper.

All business is local...and so are all newspapers!

A SENSITIVE WIFE

A women writes me as follows: "I would like to know if you think I am justified in feeling hurt over the following situation: Whenever a family dinner comes up, my mother-in-law always calls my husband and extends the invitation to him. I am always included in the invitation of course, but she has never once called and invited me directly. I always though the wife was the one to be consulted about such matters. My husband says I am petty. Am I?"

Under most circumstances, the invitation is given to the wife, but it is not unheard of to give it to the husband on occasion. In other words, whoever answers the telephone would be given the message. Of course, if you answered the telephone and she asked to speak to your husband in order to give him the invitation then I think she is very rude to you. Even so, if I were you I would try to ignore it and just consider it a strange idiosyncrasy of hers.

Neglected Sisters

Dear Mrs. Post: My brother is to be married soon. Our family consists of mother, father, three unmarried sisters living at home and two married brothers. Each of my married brothers was sent separate invitations to the wedding and one came addressed to our house to Mr. and Mrs. but nothing at all came for the sisters living at home. Shouldn't they have received an invitation too?

Answer: I agree that the sisters should have received a separate invitation, or at least have been included on their parents' invitation.

Saying Grace

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a widow and whenever I have guests in to dinner I usually ask one of the men present to say grace. I have always felt that the blessing should be asked by a man when one is present. Is this right, or should I ask the blessing at my own table?

Answer: Unless a clergyman is present, you should ask the blessing at your own table.

Four Types Licenses Will Expire Monday

The Bureau of Motor Vehicles said registration of commercial vehicles—trucks and tractors—suburbans and trailers are affected. So-called farm registrations also expire.

For these classes of vehicles, January 15 is the new expiration date—extended two days this year because the 15th is a Saturday.

The new insurance form must accompany each 1955 application. Required for an insurance survey under a 1954 amendment, the form asks two questions: Do you have liability insurance, and, if so, what's the name of your insurance company.

Passenger car plates are still valid until midnight, January 31.

11 Cities Are Invited To Explore Possibility Of Independent League

Promoters of a New York (Hudson valley) and New Jersey semi-pro baseball league have scheduled an organization meeting at Paterson, N. J., Tuesday with representatives of 11 interested cities.

Fred J. Davi, operator of independent baseball who would head the Kingston Colonials if the league is organized, will attend.

Ben Marmo, manager of the Uncle Sams of Paterson and Bill Ryan, manager of the Newburgh Jewels, currently operating semi-pro teams, said plans for the new league call for either six or eight teams to participate.

The meeting will be held at the Alexander Hamilton Hotel.

Ryan and Marmo, who are spearheading the movement, feel that with minor league ball rapidly on the decline, top flight semi-pro competition will be able to serve as a springboard for future major league talent.

THE NEWBURGH JEWELS last season achieved a limited working agreement with the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National League and league operators believe the program can be expanded to include other teams.

Top clubs from the New York-New Jersey area who can furnish proof of sound financial backing will be welcomed into the league.

THE GAMES WILL BE played on a home and home basis and the new league is hopeful of starting the latter part of May.

Teams in the upper Hudson valley section interested in attending the meeting are urged to contact Bill Ryan, 96 Broadway, Newburgh.

An effort to organize an independent league failed after several meetings early in 1954. The league proponents are now confident that 1955 will see semi-pro ball revived on a large scale in the area.

Nationals Defeat Village Rest in Overtime Finish

Village Rest saw one go by the boards in the small fry league at the George Washington School this week with victory just about salted away.

A personal foul on DeCicco of the Nationals who was going in for the layup started the downfall and in the overtime skirmish the Nats won it on shots by Mike Perry and Bob Lucas. The final score was 28-25.

The Villagers led 24-22 with five seconds to go when DeCicco was fouled. DeCicco converted both foul shots to tie up the game and then Perry and Lucas applied the offensive in the overtime to decide the outcome.

IN THE OTHER contests, the Oilers brushed back the Flashes, 42 to 33 with Locke netting 14 for the winners and McDonough 18 for the Flashes.

Maddens TV quintet defeated the Center Cats, 51-45. Kearney and DeCicco each had 14 for Maddens while Klonowski had 18 for the Cats.

In a lop-sided contest, the Boys' Club registered a 23 to 3 verdict over the Salvation Army. Smedes scored all three points for the losers while Esposito led the winners with seven.

The scores:

Nationals (28)—Lucas 4-3-11; Maines 0-2-2; O'Reilly 1-0-2; DeCicco 0-2-2; Juhl 2-0-4; Perry 2-3-7.

Village Rest (25)—Gillispie 3-0-6; Beaver 2-0-4; Van Loan 1-0-2; Short 3-0-6; McCabe 3-1-7; Wenzel 0-0-0.

Oilers (42) — Doran 3-1-7; Feldman 4-1-9; Guinto 4-0-8; Locke 7-0-14; Celuch 0-0-0; Krueger 0-0-0; Yerry 2-0-4.

Flashes (33) — Keizer 0-2-2; Sampson 0-0-0; McDonough 9-0-18; Cosenza 4-0-8; Miller 1-1-3; Havens 1-0-2.

Maddens (51)—Kearney 7-0-14; Gardeski 3-1-7; White 1-3-5; DeCicco 7-0-14; Carpino 3-0-6; Mitchell 2-0-4; Tiano 0-1-1.

Center Cats ((45) — Tirums 3-1-7; Hoffman 1-0-2; Klonowski 8-2-18; Pratt 7-0-14; Ellsworth 2-0-4.

A full slate is also scheduled in the Ulster County Athletic League, with Marlboro Central at Highland; New Paltz at Wallkill and Kerhonkson at Saugerties.

Richards' Amateur Standing Under Fire After TV Program

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—Bob Richards, one of the United States' sure-fire winners in the 1956 Olympic games, was under investigation by the Amateur Athletic Union today but he said he would abide by any decision the AAU made in order to preserve his amateur status.

Richards, the country's No. 1 pole vaulter, got in difficulty after the "This is Your Life" night. At the end of the program, he was given several gifts, including a dummy set of keys to an automobile.

AAU OFFICALS immediately became alarmed and Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the organization, said he wired Larry Houston, chairman of the rules committe of the Southern Pacific AAU:

"Attention has been called to a TV program in which Bobby Richards received an automobile. Assume you are looking into it."

The surprised Richards, pastor of the Church of the Brethren in Long Beach, Calif., was caught right in the middle.

"Whatever the AAU says I'll be happy to comply," he said. "I certainly want to compete in the 1956 Olympic games."

RICHARDS, when he appeared at the program, did not know it would be the story of his life. At the end, the first question he asked was: Would his gifts endanger his amateur standing?

He was assured that his appearance had been okayed by an official of the Southern Pacific AAU. Apparently this was a misunderstanding. The AAU said he could appear on the program, but made no mention of accepting gifts. At the end of the show, Ralph Edwards, who made the presentation, observed that if the AAU ruled that Richards could not accept the car, perhaps it could be donated to his church.

'Fighter of Year' Olson Plans Busy Campaign in '55

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—Bobo Olson knows he won the Edward J. Neil award as "Fighter of the Year" for 1954 because he was a busy champion so he plans a full schedule for '55.

Olson, who admits frankly he fights only for money, said last night at the boxing writers' dinner he planned to keep busy this year. Three successful defenses of his middleweight title won him recognition from the writers.

Joey Giardello, the Philadelphia battler who bounces from suspensions to reinstatements every other week, probably will be the next opponent if Joey shows to advantage against Al Andrews in Norfolk, Jan. 26.

THE NEIL AWARD, accepted by Olson, is named in memory of the former Associated Press boxing writer who was killed while covering the war in Spain in 1938.

James J. Braddock, former heavyweight champ, received the James J. Walker Memorial plaque for "long and meritorious service" and Frankie Ryff, unbeaten 22-year-old New York lightweight, was honored as "Rookie of the Year." Nat Fleischer, president of the Writers' Association; James Farley, former postmaster general and former chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission; and Murray Rose, Associated Press boxing writer, made the presentations.

DeVicenzo 10-Under In Panama Tourney

Panama, Panama, Jan. 14 (AP) — Argentine's long-hitting Roberto DeVicenzo posted a phenomenal 10-under-par 62 to take a 3-stroke lead in the first round of the $7,500 Panama Open golf tournament here yesterday.

Playing in a steady tropical rain, the Argentine professional registered 10 birdies in putting together identical rounds of 31-31 to shatter the Panama course record by 3 strokes.

Tied for second, at 65, were Arnold Palmer of Columbus, Ga., and De Vicenzo's countryman, Antonio Cerda.

Charles Harper, also of Columbus, Ga., and Pablo Moline, Bogota, Colombia, each shot a 69 to tie for fourth in the field of 134.

Nats Still HexPistons

By The Associated Press

The Fort Wayne Pistons, western division leaders of the National Basketball Association, must be wondering today if they ever will win a game in Syracuse.

The Pistons, who have never beaten the Nats in Syracuse, dropped a 100-83 decision to the Nats on the Syracuse court last night. Overall including games at Fort Wayne the Pistons now have lost eight straight to the Nats, dating back to January, 1954. The teams have played 32 games since the league was organized. The Nats have won 26.

THE VICTORY, however, did not help the Nats, who remained two percentage points behind the Boston Celtics in the Eastern Division race. The Celtics whipped the New York Knickerbockers in Philadelphia, 116-100. In the other game of the twin bill there, the Philadelphia Warriors defeated the Minneapolis Lakers, 102-96.

In the Celtic triumph, it was the 21st time this season the high scoring outfit has gone over the 100-mark. Ray Felix of New York was banished from the game after a fight with Fred Scolari of the Celtics in the first half. Bob Cousy was high man for the winners with 26 points.

Loi Rated 2-1 Over Flanagan

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 14 (AP) —Duilio Loi, European lightweight champion in pursuit of Jimmy Carter's world title, makes his American ring debut tonight and is a 2-1 favorite to defeat rough, aggressive Glen Flanagan of St. Paul.

The 10-round fight will be televised nationally (NBC) from the Miami Beach Auditorium, starting at 10 p. m.

The handsome Loi, rated as the No. 2 lightweight contender behind Paddy DeMarco, has an impressive record of 59 victories, three draws and only one defeat in European competition. He has been made a 2-1 favorite over Flanagan.

LOI, IN FULL accord with the oddsmakers, predicted he would finish Flanagan in five rounds. Although the 24-year-old Italian is not a knockout hitter, he has stopped some of his opponents by cutting them up.

Although he has won 17 of his last 18 fights, Flanagan hasn't met many dangerous lightweights lately. Carter gave him a sound beating last August in Chicago.

Maryland's Freeze Ices 68-64 Upset Over NCS

It's getting to look more and more like this might be the season for Maryland—long a college basketball pushover but now powering along on a 9-game winning streak capped by a 68-64 upset of highly regarded North Carolina State.

The ambush of NCS, rated No. 2 in this week's Associated Press poll, was accomplished last night at College Park as the 11th ranked Terps got superb clutch work from Bob Kessler and sophomore Bob O'Brien for a 9-point winning rally in the final five minutes.

After Kessler, who topped scoring with 26 points, and O'Brien pushed Maryland into the lead, the twice-beaten Terps went into a freeze — an old North Carolina State bugaboo—and wrapped it up.

IT WAS ONLY the second defeat in 16 games for the Wolfpack, who just managed to nudge North Carolina 47-44 in the Dixie Classic. Villanova first spilled NCS, while Duke and Wake Forest hold victories over Maryland.

NCS was hampered more than a little by the ineffectiveness of Ron Shavlik, their usually high-scoring center. The 6-10 Shavlik, who sat out Tuesday's victory over Furman because of a virus attack, manged only 2 points before fouling out with 3½ minutes left in the first half. Cliff Dwyer took over for the Wolfpack with 20.

It was the only game involving a ranked team last night and the victory shoved Maryland into a first place tie with defending champ NCS for the Atlantic Coast Conference lead—A rather hollow accomplishment, however, since the Conference title is determined in a season windup tournament.

MARYLAND'S 12th victory brought Coach Bud Millikan's record with the Terps to 78-36 during his five years at College Park. In the preceding 10 years, Maryland had been able to win only 72.

Tennessee hit 53 per cent of its first half field goal attempts for a 38-27 halftime lead and then had to go into a freeze to defeat Tulane 71-58 in a Southeastern Conference game.

Furman, the top scoring team in major College ball, piled it on again to defeat Georgia Tech —the conqueror of mighty Kentucky—by a 111-95 count. It was the second straight set back for Tech following last week's 59-58 surprise of Kentucky.

Marshall, No. 3 in offense, rolled past Xavier of Ohio 82-69 for a 6-1 record while Holy Cross slammed Rhode Island 99-64 after a 27-12 lead in the first 9½ minutes. Tom Heinsohn scored 26 for the winners.

Maurice Stokes, benched with 4 personal fouls, came back with 7 minutes left and hit for 9 straight points in an 85-75 come-from behind victory by St. Francis of Loretto, Pa., over Hofstra. St. Francis, which spilled Duquesne, had 28 points from Stokes for the game.

In other games, Florida whacked Miami (Fla.) a second time 80-68 with Bob Emrick scoring 25. Memphis State defeated Murray (Ky.) again 67-56 and Butler had a 72-59 success against Indiana State.

11 Cities Are Invited To Explore Possibility Of Independent League

Promoters of a New York (Hudson valley) and New Jersey semi-pro baseball league have scheduled an organization meeting at Paterson, N. J., Tuesday with representatives of 11 interested cities.

Fred J. Davi, operator of independent baseball who would head the Kingston Colonials if the league is organized, will attend.

Ben Marmo, manager of the Uncle Sams of Paterson and Bill Ryan, manager of the Newburgh Jewels, currently operating semi-pro teams, said plans for the new league call for either six or eight teams to participate.

The meeting will be held at the Alexander Hamilton Hotel.

Ryan and Marmo, who are spearheading the movement, feel that with minor league ball rapidly on the decline, top flight semi-pro competition will be able to serve as a springboard for future major league talent.

THE NEWBURGH JEWELS last season achieved a limited working agreement with the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National League and league operators believe the program can be expanded to include other teams.

Top clubs from the New York-New Jersey area who can furnish proof of sound financial backing will be welcomed into the league.

THE GAMES WILL BE played on a home and home basis and the new league is hopeful of starting the latter part of May.

Teams in the upper Hudson valley section interested in attending the meeting are urged to contact Bill Ryan, 96 Broadway, Newburgh.

An effort to organize an independent league failed after several meetings early in 1954. The league proponents are now confident that 1955 will see semi-pro ball revived on a large scale in the area.

Nationals Defeat Village Rest in Overtime Finish

Village Rest saw one go by the boards in the small fry league at the George Washington School this week with victory just about salted away.

A personal foul on DeCicco of the Nationals who was going in for the layup started the downfall and in the overtime skirmish the Nats won it on shots by Mike Perry and Bob Lucas. The final score was 28-25.

The Villagers led 24-22 with five seconds to go when DeCicco was fouled. DeCicco converted both foul shots to tie up the game and then Perry and Lucas applied the offensive in the overtime to decide the outcome.

IN THE OTHER contests, the Oilers brushed back the Flashes, 42 to 33 with Locke netting 14 for the winners and McDonough 18 for the Flashes.

Maddens TV quintet defeated the Center Cats, 51-45. Kearney and DeCicco each had 14 for Maddens while Klonowski had 18 for the Cats.

In a lop-sided contest, the Boys' Club registered a 23 to 3 verdict over the Salvation Army. Smedes scored all three points for the losers while Esposito led the winners with seven.

The scores:

Nationals (28)—Lucas 4-3-11; Maines 0-2-2; O'Reilly 1-0-2; DeCicco 0-2-2; Juhl 2-0-4; Perry 2-3-7.

Village Rest (25)—Gillispie 3-0-6; Beaver 2-0-4; Van Loan 1-0-2; Short 3-0-6; McCabe 3-1-7; Wenzel 0-0-0.

Oilers (42) — Doran 3-1-7; Feldman 4-1-9; Guinto 4-0-8; Locke 7-0-14; Celuch 0-0-0; Krueger 0-0-0; Yerry 2-0-4.

Flashes (33) — Keizer 0-2-2; Sampson 0-0-0; McDonough 9-0-18; Cosenza 4-0-8; Miller 1-1-3; Havens 1-0-2.

Maddens (51)—Kearney 7-0-14; Gardeski 3-1-7; White 1-3-5; DeCicco 7-0-14; Carpino 3-0-6; Mitchell 2-0-4; Tiano 0-1-1.

Center Cats ((45) — Tirums 3-1-7; Hoffman 1-0-2; Klonowski 8-2-18; Pratt 7-0-14; Ellsworth 2-0-4.

State Fishery Expert Praises Trout Project

Tells Federation Banquet Of Improved Brook Program

Dr. Mason Lawrence, chief of the state Conservation Department's Bureau of Fisheries, stressed the importance of the department's re-processing of lakes in the Adirondacks, in a speech before a record breaking attendance at the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster county's annual banquet last night at the 1776 Colonial Inn at Pine Bush.

The project makes these lakes strictly brook trout waters, Dr. Lawrence said.

THE PONDS ARE cleared of all other species of fish and restocked with brook trout. The result is some of the best brook trout fishing found anywhere in the country.

Several ponds in the Adirondacks have already undergone this treatment and the department hopes to spread the project to other parts of the state. He urged local fishermen to take an active part in the work of the Federation.

No live bait of any kind may be used in these reprocessed waters, Dr. Lawrence said, and experiments have shown that brook trout will flourish in these waters. He said the fishing population of the state is steadily growing and the Conservation Department is finding it difficult to cope with these conditions.

ABE RAND of Ellenville, the retiring president, was toastmaster and introduced the new officers. He also praised the work of the several standing committees who worked with him during 1954. He spoke highly of the qualities of Carlton King, the incoming president, and expressed the hope that 1955 would be another great year for the sportsmen of Ulster county.

KING ALSO PAID high tribute to the press and radio for coverage of federation activities during the past year.

Championship trophies were awarded by Earl Conro, past president, to the Milton Rod and Gun Club, New Paltz Rod and Gun Club and James Guerreri of Rosendale, the county singles trapshooting champion.

Treasurer Whalen gave the financial statement for the year which showed a bank balance of $354.58.

A MOMENT OF SILENCE was observed for Fred Thiel, former Ulster county singles champion, who died in December.

President King urged the sportsmen to make every effort to attend the monthly meetings and work for the betterment of the Federation. The February meeting will be held in Saugerties, with the Saugerties Fish and Game Club as host.

Dinneen, Ex-Major Leaguer Dies at 78

Syracuse, Jan. 14 (AP)—William H. (Bill) Dinneen, 78, former major league pitching star and umpire, died last night in Syracuse Memorial Hospital.

Dinneen was admitted to the hospital Wednesday.

An autopsy was to be performed today to determine the cause of death.

It Was 65—Below

London, Jan. 14 (AP)—Moscow radio said the mercury fell to 65 below last night in Verkhoyansk, Siberia. That isn't bad for Verkhoyansk, where it got down to 90 below back in February of 1892. Reference books says that's the coldest.

Transit Strike Planned To Start at Midnight

Negotiators for the CIO-Transport Workers Union last night rejected a six-cent-an-hour wage increase over a two-year period proposed by the Philadelphia Transportation Company for its 9,000 employes.

The PTC is the only major carrier in the city. It provides trolley, bus and subway service to an estimated two million persons daily.

The union is asking a 17-cent hourly increase over the present average wage of $1.87 an hour. Other benefits are sought but the wage issue is the key one.

Further negotiations were scheduled for today.

Port Will Give Cash for Study

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—The Port of New York Authority has agreed to put up $500,000 for a new study of railroad service between Manhattan and New Jersey.

The survey, announced by the authority yesterday, will be made for the Metropolitan Rapid Transit Commission, also a bistate agency.

The commission was set up last year to study regional rapid transit exclusive of the New York City Transit Authority's jurisdiction. The commission's budget is $100,000.

Commission Chairman Charles H. Tuttle said that under an agreement between the commission and Port Authority, the survey will be limited to the rail commuter problems of New York and New Jersey.

The related problem of Rapid Transit in Westchester county, Long Island and Staten Island will be conducted separately by his agency, Tuttle said.

Pact Is Ratified

Taipeh, Formosa, Jan. 14 (AP)—The Chinese Nationalist legislative Yuan today ratified the mutual defense pact with the United States. The pact, signed last month, pledges the United States to retaliate if the Chinese Reds attack Formosa. The vote was unanimous, with 306 members present. The U. S. Senate still has to ratify the treaty.

Industrial Club Exhibit Planned

At the January meeting of Industrial Management Club on Thursday, the 20th, in the YMCA, starting at 6:30 p. m., there will be an industrial exhibit arranged by George R. Mustaparta, program chairman, who has announced that the representative of each company will have ample space to display, demonstrate or discuss the articles shown.

President David C. Cates has asked for 100 per cent attendance of members at the session.

Chairman Mustaparta, personnel manager at Hercules Powder Company, Port Ewen, stresses that companies which plan to participate, but have not made arrangements, have time to do so by communicating with him.

Representatives of companies designated to arrange displays at the exhibit are requested to be present no later than 6 p. m. and all members are urged to make early reservations for the January 20 event.

Decision Is Reserved In Vanderbilt Case

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—A State Supreme Court Justice has reserved decision in the separation-alimony suit by Mrs. Patricia Wallace Vanderbilt against her socially prominent husband.

Justice S. Samuel Di Falco said yesterday he would decide later on the validity of Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr.'s 1953 Reno divorce from his fifth wife.

Di Falco said that if he finds Vanderbilt's divorce to be valid, he will call for testimony "under Section 1170-b in connection with maintenance and support."

Section 1170-b, a recent New York law, permits a wife to sue here for alimony even though her husband may have obtained a valid divorce in another state.

Mrs. Vanderbilt says she has been on relief since last August, unable to support herself and her 13-year-old daughter by a previous marriage.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Keep Safety Play Around for Usage

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The trouble with most safety plays is that they're seldom actually needed. You make a rather fancy play to guard against some unlikely danger, and it turns out that your precaution wasn't needed. The distribution was normal, and you'd have made your contract even if you had played the hand carelessly.

"Some of the more far-fetched safety plays," writes my friend, Terence Reese, the great English player, in just this vein, "one may make for years without coming across the particular distribution that has to be guarded against. Sooner or later, however, the conscientious player will have his reward."

Reese had his reward on the hand shown in the match between Britain and Norway in last year's European Championships. He made the key play half apologetically, expecting that it would turn out to be just a needless gesture; but it was actually vital to the success of the contract.

West opened the seven of diamonds, and Reese was relieved to see that dummy's queen held the trick. Reese could now afford to lose two trump tricks, but not three. He led the six of spades from the dummy.

East nonchalantly played the five of spades, and Reese played a low spade from his own hand. The spectators gasped when the six of spades held the trick. The rest was easy of course. Declarer could give up two trump tricks and the ace of clubs, making his game contract.

If Reese had played the ace of spades from his hand at the second trick, he would have lost three spade tricks. This would, of course, have cost him the contract.

It is important to observe that Reese couldn't lose anything by letting the six of spades ride. If West had been able to win the trick, the spades would then break no worse than 3-1, and South could then easily limit the trump loss to two tricks.

It Was 65—Below

London, Jan. 14 (AP)—Moscow radio said the mercury fell to 65 below last night in Verkhoyansk, Siberia. That isn't bad for Verkhoyansk, where it got down to 90 below back in February of 1892. Reference books says that's the coldest.

Transit Strike Planned To Start at Midnight

Philadelphia, Jan. 14 (AP)—Transportation workers made last minute plans today for a city-wide transit strike at midnight.

Negotiators for the CIO-Transport Workers Union last night rejected a six-cent-an-hour wage increase over a two-year period proposed by the Philadelphia Transportation Company for its 9,000 employes.

The PTC is the only major carrier in the city. It provides trolley, bus and subway service to an estimated two million persons daily.

The union is asking a 17-cent hourly increase over the present average wage of $1.87 an hour. Other benefits are sought but the wage issue is the key one.

Further negotiations were scheduled for today.

Port Will Give Cash for Study

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—The Port of New York Authority has agreed to put up $500,000 for a new study of railroad service between Manhattan and New Jersey.

The survey, announced by the authority yesterday, will be made for the Metropolitan Rapid Transit Commission, also a bistate agency.

The commission was set up last year to study regional rapid transit exclusive of the New York City Transit Authority's jurisdiction. The commission's budget is $100,000.

Commission Chairman Charles H. Tuttle said that under an agreement between the commission and Port Authority, the survey will be limited to the rail commuter problems of New York and New Jersey.

The related problem of Rapid Transit in Westchester county, Long Island and Staten Island will be conducted separately by his agency, Tuttle said.

Pact Is Ratified

Taipeh, Formosa, Jan. 14 (AP)—The Chinese Nationalist legislative Yuan today ratified the mutual defense pact with the United States. The pact, signed last month, pledges the United States to retaliate if the Chinese Reds attack Formosa. The vote was unanimous, with 306 members present. The U. S. Senate still has to ratify the treaty.

Industrial Club Exhibit Planned

At the January meeting of Industrial Management Club on Thursday, the 20th, in the YMCA, starting at 6:30 p. m., there will be an industrial exhibit arranged by George R. Mustaparta, program chairman, who has announced that the representative of each company will have ample space to display, demonstrate or discuss the articles shown.

President David C. Cates has asked for 100 per cent attendance of members at the session.

Chairman Mustaparta, personnel manager at Hercules Powder Company, Port Ewen, stresses that companies which plan to participate, but have not made arrangements, have time to do so by communicating with him.

Representatives of companies designated to arrange displays at the exhibit are requested to be present no later than 6 p. m. and all members are urged to make early reservations for the January 20 event.

Decision Is Reserved In Vanderbilt Case

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—A State Supreme Court Justice has reserved decision in the separation-alimony suit by Mrs. Patricia Wallace Vanderbilt against her socially prominent husband.

Justice S. Samuel Di Falco said yesterday he would decide later on the validity of Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr.'s 1953 Reno divorce from his fifth wife.

Contending that the divorce was not valid, Mrs. Vanderbilt seeks $1,500 weekly alimony.

Vanderbilt did not appear in court.

Di Falco said that if he finds Vanderbilt's divorce to be valid, he will call for testimony "under Section 1170-b in connection with maintenance and support."

Section 1170-b, a recent New York law, permits a wife to sue here for alimony even though her husband may have obtained a valid divorce in another state.

Mrs. Vanderbilt says she has been on relief since last August, unable to support herself and her 13-year-old daughter by a previous marriage.

Keep Safety Play Around for Usage

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The trouble with most safety plays is that they're seldom actually needed. You make a rather fancy play to guard against some unlikely danger, and it turns out that your precaution wasn't needed. The distribution was normal, and you'd have made your contract even if you had played the hand carelessly.

"Some of the more far-fetched safety plays," writes my friend, Terenee Reese, the great English player, in just this vein, "one may make for years without coming across the particular distribution that has to be guarded against. Sooner or later, however, the conscientious player will have his reward."

Reese had his reward on the hand shown in the match between Britain and Norway in last year's European Championships. He made the key play half apologetically, expecting that it would turn out to be just a needless gesture; but it was actually vital to the success of the contract.

West opened the seven of diamonds, and Reese was relieved to see that dummy's queen held the trick. Reese could now afford to lose two trump tricks, but not three. He led the six of spades from the dummy.

East nonchalantly played the five of spades, and Reese played a low spade from his own hand. The spectators gasped when the six of spades held the trick. The rest was easy of course. Declarer could give up two trump tricks and the ace of clubs, making his game contract.

If Reese had played the ace of spades from his hand at the second trick, he would have lost three spade tricks. This would, of course, have cost him the contract.

It is important to observe that Reese couldn't lose anything by letting the six of spades ride. If West had been able to win the trick, the spades would then break no worse than 3-1, and South could then easily limit the trump loss to two tricks.

Work of Jaycees Lauded by Stang

Pointing out the work that the Kingston Jaycees have done to help improve Kingston through their various civic and youth activities, Mayor Frederick H. Stang has proclaimed the week of Jan. 14-21 as Junior Chamber of Commerce Week.

During the actual proclamation ceremony at City Hall Thursday afternoon, the mayor paid outstanding tribute to the Jayvee group and called upon all business and organizations in the city to cooperate in the observance.

He said the purpose of the week is to focus attention on young men and the work they are doing. He also pointed out that during the celebration week, the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce will celebrate its 35th anniversary while the local unit will have its third.

THE FUNDAMENTAL purpose of the Junior C of C, as defined by E. LaMar Buckner, president of the U. S. C of C, is that as a national organization "we stimulate young manhood to a keen awareness of its individual and collective obligation.

"Our fundamental objectives are three," he said. These he defined as:

"To develop in young men the qualities of personal leadership; to offer young men an instrument with which to improve the communities in which they live and to afford young men the only medium available for the vigorous expression of their opinions."

Young men interested in joining the Jaycees are not only welcome but are encouraged to join. Interested men may write to the Junior C of C, Governor Clinton Hotel.

Church Committe Makes Report

A report of the first year's work of the Renovating Committe of the Franklin Street AME Zion Church was released today.

The committee was appointed in January, 1954, by the Rev. Sampson M. Greene. Its stated purpose was to renovate the church and parsonage whenever necessary.

During the year, the committee redecorated the church kitchen with paint and linoleum and intalled two stoves. The committee also painted the exterior, the kitchen and the hall of the parsonage on Liberty street.

WORK WAS. financed by sponsoring a variety show, two clam chowder sales, a fashion show, pie contest, a rummage sale, a food sale and a Christmas tea.

Members of the committee are: Mrs. James B. Greaux, chairman; Mrs. Robert Hardin, vice chairman; Mrs. Juanita Jackson, treasurer; Mrs. Ernest Carmine, secretary; James B. Greaux, Robert Hardin, Mr. and Mrs. Junius Harris, Floyd Colden, Ernest Carmine.

An anniversary roast beef dinner is planned for Thursday, Jan. 20, from 6 to 8 p. m. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the committee not later than Tuesday, Jan. 18.

Kiwanis Honors Fire Chief Murphy

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy was made an honorary member of the Kiwanis Club at the club's installation meeting Thursday noon at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Herman C. Schwenk, club president, paid tribute to the fire chief's unselfish service to the city as a firefighter first in the volunteer department and later with the paid department since its organization. Schwenk also mentioned the service to the county performed by Chief Murphy in his efforts in the organization of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association. A certificate of honorary membership was presented to Chief Murphy.

INSTALLATION of officers was conducted by H. Lewis Kolodny of Monticello, lieutenant governor for the Kiwanis Hudson River Division. Those installed were: Herman C. Schwenk, president; Hubert Hoderath, immediate past president; Bernard A. Feeney, Sr., first vice president; H. Van Wyck Darrow, second vice president; Fred L. Van Deusen, treasurer; John R. Warren, secretary; Christopher D. Morris and Francis E. Palen, Jr., new members of the board of directors.

The past president's lapel button was presented to Hoderath by Howard A. Meyer of Middletown, past lieutenant governor. Among the visiting Kiwanians was Walter O. Lloyd of Poughkeepsie, dean of past governors, who held the state's highest Kiwanis office in 1924.

Three Different Zones

The Bhotia tribesmen of India's lofty Himalaya country live in three different zones, occupied according to season, says the National Geographic Society. Many of the tribes move about among three villages, the highest near the Tibetan border. The word Bhotia itself means "Man of Tibet."

Work of Jaycees Lauded by Stang

Pointing out the work that the Kingston Jaycees have done to help improve Kingston through their various civic and youth activities, Mayor Frederick H. Stang has proclaimed the week of Jan. 14-21 as Junior Chamber of Commerce Week.

During the actual proclamation ceremony at City Hall Thursday afternoon, the mayor paid outstanding tribute to the Jayvee group and called upon all business and organizations in the city to cooperate in the observance.

He said the purpose of the week is to focus attention on young men and the work they are doing. He also pointed out that during the celebration week, the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce will celebrate its 35th anniversary while the local unit will have its third.

THE FUNDAMENTAL purpose of the Junior C of C, as defined by E. LaMar Buckner, president of the U. S. C of C, is that as a national organization "we stimulate young manhood to a keen awareness of its individual and collective obligation.

"Our fundamental objectives are three," he said. These he defined as:

"To develop in young men the qualities of personal leadership; to offer young men an instrument with which to improve the communities in which they live and to afford young men the only medium available for the vigorous expression of their opinions."

Young men interested in joining the Jaycees are not only welcome but are encouraged to join. Interested men may write to the Junior C of C, Governor Clinton Hotel.

Church Committe Makes Report

A report of the first year's work of the Renovating Committe of the Franklin Street AME Zion Church was released today.

The committee was appointed in January, 1954, by the Rev. Sampson M. Greene. Its stated purpose was to renovate the church and parsonage whenever necessary.

During the year, the committee redecorated the church kitchen with paint and linoleum and intalled two stoves. The committee also painted the exterior, the kitchen and the hall of the parsonage on Liberty street.

WORK WAS. financed by sponsoring a variety show, two clam chowder sales, a fashion show, pie contest, a rummage sale, a food sale and a Christmas tea.

Members of the committee are: Mrs. James B. Greaux, chairman; Mrs. Robert Hardin, vice chairman; Mrs. Juanita Jackson, treasurer; Mrs. Ernest Carmine, secretary; James B. Greaux, Robert Hardin, Mr. and Mrs. Junius Harris, Floyd Colden, Ernest Carmine.

An anniversary roast beef dinner is planned for Thursday, Jan. 20, from 6 to 8 p. m. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the committee not later than Tuesday, Jan. 18.

Kiwanis Honors Fire Chief Murphy

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy was made an honorary member of the Kiwanis Club at the club's installation meeting Thursday noon at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Herman C. Schwenk, club president, paid tribute to the fire chief's unselfish service to the city as a firefighter first in the volunteer department and later with the paid department since its organization. Schwenk also mentioned the service to the county performed by Chief Murphy in his efforts in the organization of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association. A certificate of honorary membership was presented to Chief Murphy.

INSTALLATION of officers was conducted by H. Lewis Kolodny of Monticello, lieutenant governor for the Kiwanis Hudson River Division. Those installed were: Herman C. Schwenk, president; Hubert Hoderath, immediate past president; Bernard A. Feeney, Sr., first vice president; H. Van Wyck Darrow, second vice president; Fred L. Van Deusen, treasurer; John R. Warren, secretary; Christopher D. Morris and Francis E. Palen, Jr., new members of the board of directors.

The past president's lapel button was presented to Hoderath by Howard A. Meyer of Middletown, past lieutenant governor. Among the visiting Kiwanians was Walter O. Lloyd of Poughkeepsie, dean of past governors, who held the state's highest Kiwanis office in 1924.

Merger May Bring Biggest Bank; Subject to Okay

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—Directors of Chase National Bank and the Bank of the Manhattan Co. yesterday announced merger plans which would create the second largest bank in the United States.

The combined institution will be known as "The Chase Manhattan Bank" with total resources in excess of 7½ billion dollars. It will have deposits of $6,858,000,000, second only to the $8,270,000,000 of California's Bank of America. National City Bank of New York thereby dips to third place with deposits of $5,639,000,000.

The merger had been anticipated in New York financial circles for several weeks. The same banks attempted to join in 1951, but the plan collapsed then bacause the Bank of Manhattan's 156-year-old charter requires 100 per cent stockholder approval.

The current plan is to merge the Chase National Bank into the Manhattan Company and to continue operations under the Manhattan company's charter. Under this plan, only two-thirds of the stockholders must approve.

The merger is also subject to approval of New York state banking authorities. In this regard, in Washington, Rep. Celler (D.-N.Y.), chairman of the Judiciary Committee, introduced a bill to subject bank mergers to the scrutiny and approval of federal banking officials.

Under the merger agreement, the new bank will have 12 million shares of stock outstanding. Stockholders of Chase will be entitled to 1¼ shares of the new bank for each share they already hold. Manhattan stockholders will exchange their current stock on a share-for-share basis. The enlarged bank is expected to pay dividends of $2.20 a year per share.

The first board of directors of the Chase Manhattan Bank will contain 15 Chase directors and 10 Manhattan directors. John J. McCloy, currently Chase's chairman, will become chairman of the board of directors of the new bank. J. Stewart Baker, currently Manhattan chairman, will become chairman of the executive committee and president of the new bank.

The combined institution will have 87 branches throughout New York city.

Corey Will Get Check Hearing

Poughkeepsie, Jan. 14 (AP)—James B. Corey, 28, town of Poughkeepsie Republican committee chairman, was arrested last night on a warrant charging he issued a fraudulent check for $240 to the committee last Dec. 6.

The complaint was filed by Mrs. Evelyn Schubert, committee treasurer. Corey was released for a hearing Saturday before Justice of the Peace George C. Dietz, whom Corey succeeded as committee chairman last fall.

COREY SAID the charge "completely surprised me," that he had no word from the bank, no notice from the committee and "I know that when I issued that check there was enough in the account to cover it."

Corey said the $240 represented contributions to the party by himself and others.

The agreement, one of the complex pacts covering West German rearmament, would put the strategic coal-rich area under the control of the projected Western European Union (WEU) but continue its close economic ties with France.

THE SAAR PACT has met widespread opposition in Germany, which ruled the area before both world wars. The French, however, say they will not renegotiate the agreement, and Paris has maintained that all the German rearmament treaties must be accepted as a package.

In addition to the Saar problem, Mendes-France and Adenauer are expected to cover:

1. Mendes-France's controversial European arms pool plan, designed to curb any runaway German rearmament.
2. Possible West German participation in the economic development of North Africa.
3. Broader French-German trade relations and closer economic cooperation in general.
4. Prospects for big power talks, including the Soviet Union, on German reunification.
5. The outlook for ratification by the West German parliament of the still pending Paris treaties.

'Foreign Planes'

THE OAS INVESTIGATING Commission, headed by Luis Quintanilla of Mexico, arrived here yesterday and immediately called morning, afternoon and night meetings. A source requesting anonymity said Costa Rican officials presented a large quantity of evidence to back up its charges that Nicaragua had aided the rebels.

The commission plans to go on to Nicaragua from here to continue its probe. In Managua, Nicaraguan Foreign Minister Oscar Sevilla Sacasa said his government had offered the group the use of an air force plane for its observation flights over Costa Rica.

Sevilla Sacasa also announced that "some" Costa Ricans in Nicaragua had been taken into custody and all others, including former President Picado, have been ordered to stay in their homes. The foreign minister explained that these orders were part of Nicaragua's efforts to demonstrate that it is keeping its hands off the trouble in Costa Rica.

THE ELDER PICADO told newsmen in Managua that all the members of the revolutionary movement were Costa Rican. Although acknowledging that his son was commanding the rebel fighting force, he said he had no connection with the revolt except "as an interested citizen."

Picado, 55, served nearly four years as president of Costa Rica before he was ousted in 1948 by a revolution led by Jose Figueres, now president of the country.

The younger Picado, 27, graduated from West Point in 1951 and shortly afterward married the former Susan Moir of Los Angeles. They had met while attending Herbert Hoover high school in Glendale, Calif.

A friend of the family said Mrs. Picado, who is in Nicaragua, gave birth to a son recently.

Ground Observers' Importance Shown In Film Presentation

A film entitled, One Plane—One Bomb, narrated by Edward R. Murrow depicting a simulated attack on New York city was shown at the monthly meeting of Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel. The film was presented by Tech. Sgt. Stephen Sleigh, training officer for all observation posts in the county, who was introduced by Mrs. Dewey Logan, post supervisor of Kingston Observation Post.

Sgt. Sleigh urged the Sisterhood to consider itself as a committee to obtain as many members as possible to volunteer to serve on the Observation Post here. The film showed the importance of the work done by the Ground Observer Corps.

During the business meeting, it was announced that the cabaret will be held in the social hall of Temple Emanuel, January 29.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Liquor Stolen At Reis Store

A second theft of liquor this week through the breaking of a window was reported to the police early today, and two other burglaries were reported.

A report at 2 a. m., said a window in the Frank Reis liquor store at 366 Broadway had been broken. Officers William Slover and George Dohnken investigated and said Reis reported "one or two" bottles of liquor missing.

EARLIER THIS week police were notified that a stone had been thrown through a window of the Promise Land Restaurant on Foxhall avenue, and some liquor was taken from there.

At 8:08 a. m., police were notified that the E. J. DuBois grocery store at 202 Foxhall avenue had been entered, and eight minutes later they were informed of another burglary at Mullen's Market, 178 Clifton avenue.

Entrance to the DuBois store was gained through the breaking of a cellar window. "Cigarettes and two cents," reported missing.

A screen door was forced and the glass of a front door broken to gain entrance to the Clifton avenue store, where $8 in change, five pies and five packs of gum were reported missing at first report.

Motor Fuel Tax Share $75,999 For Ulster County

Ulster county will share $75,999.76 of $3,068,635.04 in state motor fuel tax receipts, State Comptroller Arthur Levitt announced today.

The total is for three months ending Dec. 31, 1954 and is distributed among 57 counties outside of New York city.

The state distributed $2,967,189.43 for the same quarter in 1953.

Ten per cent of the statewide collection of a tax of four cents on the gallon is allotted to the counties under the state motor fuel tax law. The money is earmarked by statute for deposit in the county road funds.

Passing Red Light Costs Smith $25

Maitland Smith, 56, of Glenford, who was arrested Dec. 22 after a two-car accident at Broadway and Prince street, pleaded guilty today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino to a charge of passing a stop-light and was fined $25.

Smith had been charged with driving while intoxicated but he was allowed to plead to the lesser charge through consent of the district attorney's office. Attorney S. James Matthews, representing that office, said that under circumstances, proof of the other charge would be difficult. Available evidence, he indicated, would be insufficient.

Judge Mino imposed the maximum fine for the traffic light charge. The other car involved in the mishap was that of Frank Amato, of 96 Prince street.

Attorney Charles Saccoman appeared for Smith.

Trouble Is Heard

Woven through their articles are passages quoted from testimony they said was taken by the subcommittee during a 16-month investigation.

Beaser said in an interview he and Clendenen had Henrickson's permission to enter into a commitment to write the articles, a series of five.

"That is not true," said Hendrickson, reached by telephone at his home in New Jersey.

"Despite all my warnings and advice," he said, "these two fellows insisted on going ahead." He said that at one point he was "firmly resolved to chop their heads off" but finally decided to take "the calculated risk" of keeping them on rather than bringing in new aides at a late stage in the subcommittee's work.

SEN. KEFAUVER (D.-Tenn.) said he and other subcommittee members were "very much upset" when they learned about the articles. He said they first heard about them from Hendrickson after they already had been written and scheduled for publication.

Hendrickson confirmed that Kefauver expressed disapproval and he said Sen. Langer (R.-N.D.), another subcommittee member, "raised cain about it." The other subcommittee member, Sen. Hennings (D.-Mo.), said he too was disturbed.

The subcommittee, set up to make a nationwide probe of the causes and extent of juvenile delinquency, is due to expire Jan. 31 but members have urged that it be continued.

Hendrickson described Beaser and Clendenen as "excellent technicians" and "nice boys" but he said he felt their writing of the articles was "all wrong."

Beaser, a Boston lawyer, was counsel for the U. S. Children's Bureau before joining the subcommittee. Clendenen, from Laporte, Ind., was chief of the juvenile delinquency branch of the children's bureau.

4-Hers to Compete Making Desserts

Ulster county 4-H Club members again this year will demonstrate fruit desserts at the Kingston meeting of the New York State Horticultural Society, competing with entrants from 13 counties in the making of apple pies, other fruit pies and fruit dishes at the state armory on Thursday, Jan. 27.

Karen Trowbridge will be the apple pie demonstrator from Ulster county, and Nancy Hutton of Hurley will make a cherry pie as her entry in the "other fruit" pie contest. Other demonstrators from this county are Sarah Ann Civill of Stone Ridge, Janis Kelder of Accord and Enid Goetchius of Hurley. The five girls were chosen to represent the county as a result of their excellent demonstrations at the county pie baking contest.

Attorney Says Story Could Have Prevented Slaying

Mineola, Jan. 14 (AP)—A lawyer for 13-year-old Kenneth Corcoran, who admits killing his stepmother, says the slaying might not have occurred if the woman had disclosed the full contents of a psychiatric report on the boy.

Kenneth shot and killed his stepmother, Irma, 49, last Saturday night from ambush as she searched in her purse for a key to the front door of the family home in nearby Glen Head. The youngster said he killed her "because she picked on me."

At a news conference yesterday, Abrahams said the father, often away on duty, was aware that his second wife was "extremely jealous" of young Kenneth. Corcoran separated from Kenneth's mother when the boy was 3 years old.

Last September, Abrahams said, Kenneth was examined by a psychiatrist at St. Albans Naval Hospital.

Abrahams quoted from the report:

"Although the stepmother says the boy is incorrigible and purposely hateful, he is quite sick potentially and indulges in anger fantasies which may lead to a schizophrenic state later in life. . .

"HE IS VERY antagonistic toward his stepmother, whom he feels he cannot overtly oppose. He feels he is being kept down by his stepmother. . .

"His background shows many traumatic incidents. . . There are some indications he was mistreated . . . by his original mother. . ."

Abrahams said that the stepmother, in reporting to the father on the examination, said the psychiatrist called Kenneth "an absolutely normal boy—but a bad boy."

Children's Court Judge James Gehrig yesterday ordered that the boy be examined in the children's shelter by two psychiatrists, who are to submit their findings to him by Jan. 26.

Rapid Hose Banquet

Reservations for the banquet of Rapid Hose Company No. 1 to be held Jan. 29 at the Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church hall, must be turned in by Jan. 16, it was announced today. They are to be forwarded to Henry Kelsch, secretary treasurer.

Tighter Hold

added: "The next time we may not be so fortunate. It just shows how easy it is not only to get into the galleries, but onto the floor as well."

Mrs. Clark told newsmen that if she had been permitted to speak, she would have asked the House "to put me on television for about an hour so I could talk to the country," and she added:

"We should take a look at ourselves. We're running wild and everybody is just concerned with himself. We're too tense and not together."

Mrs. Clark said she is separated from her husband and lives with her parents. She said she has been unable to find a job for the past two years.

Asked about the House security arrangements, she said only one page boy had tried to talk to her as she crossed the House floor, and she added:

"I don't think they could keep anybody out of there."

Two Are Unhurt

Occupants of a car and truck in collision on Albany avenue near the Grand Union Market yesterday afternoon were apparently uninjured, police said. The car, owned and operated by Nicholas Weih, 66, RD, Saugerties, was turning into the market's parking lot, Officers John Crespino and Meyer Levy reported. The truck, owned by Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., and driven by Theodore Pfeiffer, 23, RD, Kingston, was headed west on Albany avenue. Both were reported damaged.

Motorboat Data May Be Obtained From Coast Guard

Rear Admiral Louis B. Olson, USCG, commander of the Third Coast Guard District, announced today that boat owners interested in records pertaining to their own outboard motorboats, 16 feet or less in length, now on file with the Coast Guard, may obtain these records by writing to the Motorboat Registration Section, U. S. Coast Guard, 80 Lafayette Street, New York 13, N. Y.

These records, which pertain to the ownership, construction, and registration of outboard motorboats, 16 feet or less in length, will be destroyed if not claimed by their respective owners prior to 1 March, 1955. In each case, however, Coast Guard Form 1512, Application for Number for Undocumented Motor Vessel, will be retained and placed in the Coast Guard's inactive motorboat registration file. Thousands of records still remain to be claimed.

Merger May Bring Biggest Bank; Subject to Okay

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—Directors of Chase National Bank and the Bank of the Manhattan Co. yesterday announced merger plans which would create the second largest bank in the United States.

The combined institution will be known as "The Chase Manhattan Bank" with total resources in excess of 7½ billion dollars. It will have deposits of $6,858,000,000, second only to the $8,270,000,000 of California's Bank of America. National City Bank of New York thereby dips to third place with deposits of $5,639,000,000.

The merger had been anticipated in New York financial circles for several weeks. The same banks attempted to join in 1951, but the plan collapsed then bacause the Bank of Manhattan's 156-year-old charter requires 100 per cent stockholder approval.

The current plan is to merge the Chase National Bank into the Manhattan Company and to continue operations under the Manhattan company's charter. Under this plan, only two-thirds of the stockholders must approve.

The merger is also subject to approval of New York state banking authorities. In this regard, in Washington, Rep. Celler (D.-N.Y.), chairman of the Judiciary Committee, introduced a bill to subject bank mergers to the scrutiny and approval of federal banking officials.

Under the merger agreement, the new bank will have 12 million shares of stock outstanding. Stockholders of Chase will be entitled to 1¼ shares of the new bank for each share they already hold. Manhattan stockholders will exchange their current stock on a share-for-share basis. The enlarged bank is expected to pay dividends of $2.20 a year per share.

The first board of directors of the Chase Manhattan Bank will contain 15 Chase directors and 10 Manhattan directors. John J. McCloy, currently Chase's chairman, will become chairman of the board of directors of the new bank. J. Stewart Baker, currently Manhattan chairman, will become chairman of the executive committee and president of the new bank.

The combined institution will have 87 branches throughout New York city.

Corey Will Get Check Hearing

Poughkeepsie, Jan. 14 (AP)—James B. Corey, 28, town of Poughkeepsie Republican committee chairman, was arrested last night on a warrant charging he issued a fraudulent check for $240 to the committee last Dec. 6.

The complaint was filed by Mrs. Evelyn Schubert, committee treasurer. Corey was released for a hearing Saturday before Justice of the Peace George C. Dietz, whom Corey succeeded as committee chairman last fall.

COREY SAID the charge "completely surprised me," that he had no word from the bank, no notice from the committee and "I know that when I issued that check there was enough in the account to cover it."

Corey said the $240 represented contributions to the party by himself and others.

Conference Begins

of the agreement signed between the two nations on the future of the Saar valley.

The agreement, one of the complex pacts covering West German rearmament, would put the strategic coal-rich area under the control of the projected Western European Union (WEU) but continue its close economic ties with France.

THE SAAR PACT has met widespread opposition in Germany, which ruled the area before both world wars. The French, however, say they will not renegotiate the agreement, and Paris has maintained that all the German rearmament treaties must be accepted as a package.

In addition to the Saar problem, Mendes-France and Adenauer are expected to cover:

1. Mendes-France's controversial European arms pool plan, designed to curb any runaway German rearmament.
2. Possible West German participation in the economic development of North Africa.
3. Broader French - German trade relations and closer economic cooperation in general.
4. Prospects for big power talks, including the Soviet Union, on German reunification.
5. The outlook for ratification by the West German parliament of the still pending Paris treaties.

'Foreign Planes'

THE OAS INVESTIGATING Commission, headed by Luis Quintanilla of Mexico, arrived here yesterday and immediately called morning, afternoon and night meetings. A source requesting anonymity said Costa Rican officials presented a large quantity of evidence to back up its charges that Nicaragua had aided the rebels.

The commission plans to go on to Nicaragua from here to continue its probe. In Managua, Nicaraguan Foreign Minister Oscar Sevilla Sacasa said his government had offered the group the use of an air force plane for its observation flights over Costa Rica.

Sevilla Sacasa also announced that "some" Costa Ricans in Nicaragua had been taken into custody and all others, including former President Picado, have been ordered to stay in their homes. The foreign minister explained that these orders were part of Nicaragua's efforts to demonstrate that it is keeping its hands off the trouble in Costa Rica.

THE ELDER PICADO told newsmen in Managua that all the members of the revolutionary movement were Costa Rican. Although acknowledging that his son was commanding the rebel fighting force, he said he had no connection with the revolt except "as an interested citizen."

Picado, 55, served nearly four years as president of Costa Rica before he was ousted in 1948 by a revolution led by Jose Figueres, now president of the country.

The younger Picado, 27, graduated from West Point in 1951 and shortly afterward married the former Susan Moir of Los Angeles. They had met while attending Herbert Hoover high school in Glendale, Calif.

A friend of the family said Mrs. Picado, who is in Nicaragua, gave birth to a son recently.

Ground Observers' Importance Shown In Film Presentation

A film entitled, One Plane—One Bomb, narrated by Edward R. Murrow depicting a simulated attack on New York city was shown at the monthly meeting of Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel. The film was presented by Tech. Sgt. Stephen Sleigh, training officer for all observation posts in the county, who was introduced by Mrs. Dewey Logan, post supervisor of Kingston Observation Post.

Sgt. Sleigh urged the Sisterhood to consider itself as a committee to obtain as many members as possible to volunteer to serve on the Observation Post here. The film showed the importance of the work done by the Ground Observer Corps.

During the business meeting, it was announced that the cabaret will be held in the social hall of Temple Emanuel, January 29.

Liquor Stolen At Reis Store

A second theft of liquor this week through the breaking of a window was reported to the police early today, and two other burglaries were reported.

A report at 2 a. m., said a window in the Frank Reis liquor store at 366 Broadway had been broken. Officers William Slover and George Dohnken investigated and said Reis reported "one or two" bottles of liquor missing.

EARLIER THIS week police were notified that a stone had been thrown through a window of the Promise Land Restaurant on Foxhall avenue, and some liquor was taken from there.

At 8:08 a. m., police were notified that the E. J. DuBois grocery store at 202 Foxhall avenue had been entered, and eight minutes later they were informed of another burglary at Mullen's Market, 178 Clifton avenue.

Entrance to the DuBois store was gained through the breaking of a cellar window. "Cigarettes and two cents," reported missing.

A screen door was forced and the glass of a front door broken to gain entrance to the Clifton avenue store, where $8 in change, five pies and five packs of gum were reported missing at first report.

Motor Fuel Tax Share $75,999 For Ulster County

Ulster county will share $75,999.76 of $3,068,635.04 in state motor fuel tax receipts, State Comptroller Arthur Levitt announced today.

The total is for three months ending Dec. 31, 1954 and is distributed among 57 counties outside of New York city.

The state distributed $2,967,189.43 for the same quarter in 1953.

Ten per cent of the statewide collection of a tax of four cents on the gallon is allotted to the counties under the state motor fuel tax law. The money is earmarked by statute for deposit in the county road funds.

Passing Red Light Costs Smith $25

Maitland Smith, 56, of Glenford, who was arrested Dec. 22 after a two-car accident at Broadway and Prince street, pleaded guilty today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino to a charge of passing a stop-light and was fined $25.

Smith had been charged with driving while intoxicated but he was allowed to plead to the lesser charge through consent of the district attorney's office. Attorney S. James Matthews, representing that office, said that under circumstances, proof of the other charge would be difficult. Available evidence, he indicated, would be insufficient.

Judge Mino imposed the maximum fine for the traffic light charge. The other car involved in the mishap was that of Frank Amato, of 96 Prince street.

Attorney Charles Saccoman appeared for Smith.

Trouble Is Heard

moral standards to our children, but upholds another set of standards as perfectly all right for adults."

Woven through their articles are passages quoted from testimony they said was taken by the subcommittee during a 16-month investigation.

Beaser said in an interview he and Clendenen had Henrickson's permission to enter into a commitment to write the articles, a series of five.

"That is not true," said Hendrickson, reached by telephone at his home in New Jersey.

"Despite all my warnings and advice," he said, "these two fellows insisted on going ahead." He said that at one point he was "firmly resolved to chop their heads off" but finally decided to take "the calculated risk" of keeping them on rather than bringing in new aides at a late stage in the subcommittee's work.

SEN. KEFAUVER (D.-Tenn.) said he and other subcommittee members were "very much upset" when they learned about the articles. He said they first heard about them from Hendrickson after they already had been written and scheduled for publication.

Hendrickson confirmed that Kefauver expressed disapproval and he said Sen. Langer (R.-N.D.), another subcommittee member, "raised cain about it." The other subcommittee member, Sen. Hennings (D.-Mo.), said he too was disturbed.

The subcommittee, set up to make a nationwide probe of the causes and extent of juvenile delinquency, is due to expire Jan. 31 but members have urged that it be continued.

Hendrickson described Beaser and Clendenen as "excellent technicians" and "nice boys" but he said he felt their writing of the articles was "all wrong."

Beaser, a Boston lawyer, was counsel for the U. S. Children's Bureau before joining the subcommittee. Clendenen, from Laporte, Ind., was chief of the juvenile delinquency branch of the children's bureau.

4-Hers to Compete Making Desserts

Ulster county 4-H Club members again this year will demonstrate fruit desserts at the Kingston meeting of the New York State Horticultural Society, competing with entrants from 13 counties in the making of apple pies, other fruit pies and fruit dishes at the state armory on Thursday, Jan. 27.

Karen Trowbridge will be the apple pie demonstrator from Ulster county, and Nancy Hutton of Hurley will make a cherry pie as her entry in the "other fruit" pie contest. Other demonstrators from this county are Sarah Ann Civill of Stone Ridge, Janis Kelder of Accord and Enid Goetchius of Hurley. The five girls were chosen to represent the county as a result of their excellent demonstrations at the county pie baking contest.

Attorney Says Story Could Have Prevented Slaying

Mineola, Jan. 14 (AP)—A lawyer for 13-year-old Kenneth Corcoran, who admits killing his stepmother, says the slaying might not have occurred if the woman had disclosed the full contents of a psychiatric report on the boy.

Kenneth shot and killed his stepmother, Irma, 49, last Saturday night from ambush as she searched in her purse for a key to the front door of the family home in nearby Glen Head. The youngster said he killed her "because she picked on me."

At a news conference yesterday, Abrahams said the father, often away on duty, was aware that his second wife was "extremely jealous" of young Kenneth. Corcoran separated from Kenneth's mother when the boy was 3 years old.

Last September, Abrahams said, Kenneth was examined by a psychiatrist at St. Albans Naval Hospital.

Abrahams quoted from the report:

"Although the stepmother says the boy is incorrigible and purposely hateful, he is quite sick potentially and indulges in anger fantasies which may lead to a schizophrenic state later in life. . .

"HE IS VERY antagonistic toward his stepmother, whom he feels he cannot overtly oppose. He feels he is being kept down by his stepmother. . .

Abrahams said that the stepmother, in reporting to the father on the examination, said the psychiatrist called Kenneth "an absolutely normal boy—but a bad boy."

Children's Court Judge James Gehrig yesterday ordered that the boy be examined in the children's shelter by two psychiatrists, who are to submit their findings to him by Jan. 26.

Rapid Hose Banquet

Reservations for the banquet of Rapid Hose Company No. 1 to be held Jan. 29 at the Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church hall, must be turned in by Jan. 16, it was announced today. They are to be forwarded to Henry Kelsch, secretary treasurer.

Tighter Hold

added: "The next time we may not be so fortunate. It just shows how easy it is not only to get into the galleries, but onto the floor as well."

Mrs. Clark told newsmen that if she had been permitted to speak, she would have asked the House "to put me on television for about an hour so I could talk to the country," and she added:

"We should take a look at ourselves. We're running wild and everybody is just concerned with himself. We're too tense and not together."

Mrs. Clark said she is separated from her husband and lives with her parents. She said she has been unable to find a job for the past two years.

Asked about the House security arrangements, she said only one page boy had tried to talk to her as she crossed the House floor, and she added:

Two Are Unhurt

Occupants of a car and truck in collision on Albany avenue near the Grand Union Market yesterday afternoon were apparently uninjured, police said. The car, owned and operated by Nicholas Weih, 66, RD, Saugerties, was turning into the market's parking lot, Officers John Crespino and Meyer Levy reported. The truck, owned by Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., and driven by Theodore Pfeiffer, 23, RD, Kingston, was headed west on Albany avenue. Both were reported damaged.

Motorboat Data May Be Obtained From Coast Guard

Rear Admiral Louis B. Olson, USCG, commander of the Third Coast Guard District, announced today that boat owners interested in records pertaining to their own outboard motorboats, 16 feet or less in length, now on file with the Coast Guard, may obtain these records by writing to the Motorboat Registration Section, U. S. Coast Guard, 80 Lafayette Street, New York 13, N. Y.

These records, which pertain to the ownership, construction, and registration of outboard motorboats, 16 feet or less in length, will be destroyed if not claimed by their respective owners prior to 1 March, 1955. In each case, however, Coast Guard Form 1512, Application for Number for Undocumented Motor Vessel, will be retained and placed in the Coast Guard's inactive motorboat registration file. Thousands of records still remain to be claimed.
